44 TOWNS OVER THE TOP ON 'V' LOAN

New England Breaking All Previous Records in Lending Money to Uncle Sam

Twelve New England towns and cities were reported today as having subscribed their full quota, making 44 in the first 24 hours of the Victory Loan drive.

First day subscriptions in New England totalled $31,577,000, according to reports from 591 out of 854 banks. This, compared with $43,-000,000 subscribed to the Fourth Liberty Loan, is about one-twelfth of the New England quota.

Massachusetts subscribed $21,663,-000 of this sum, Connecticut $6,549,-000, Rhode Island $1,956,000, Maine $791,000, Vermont $659,000 and New Hampshire $257,000.

Boston's subscription was $18,017,-000.

Salem and Southboro headed the list of Massachusetts cities and towns to secure their quota. In the former city the $2,252,000 was raised at a great mass meeting, over which W. H. Trumbull presided. Subscriptions of $1,000,000 each were made by the Salem Savings Bank and Salem Five Cent Savings Banks.

No official New England figures will be given out before Thursday, it was stated at Victory Loan headquarters on Milk street. The progress of the

MYSTERY MAN DIGS UP FARM TO FIND "BODY"

Worcester, April 22.—Midnight excavations on his farm by a well-dressed man caused Andrew Marreno, a farmer living near Leicester, to appeal to the police. The stranger, about twenty-four years of age, told Marreno he was from New York. The police say he had a blue print of the farm, and said his wealthy sister had disappeared and he had reason to believe she was murdered and buried on the farm. He vanished before Marreno could notify the State police, who are trying to solve the mystery.

About half a company of Yankees came home today as members of P Battery Casuals of the 103d Field Artillery. The balance of the lads in that company and aboard the liner Vedic, which steamed into Commonwealth Pier, were from Missouri.

The Vedic had slightly more than 2,000 soldiers aboard, and hardly had she made fast ere the process of debarkation began.

Conditions for greeting the Vedic were the best that have thus far prevailed. A smiling sun shone down as

The unique history of the financial downfall of George F. AN OPEN LETTER TO GOV. COOLIDGE FROM SIMON SWIG, VICE-PRESIDENT TREMONT TRUST CO.

Hon. Calvin Coolidge,
State House,
Boston, Mass.

44 State St., Boston
April 21, 1919

Dear Governor:—

Senate Bill No. 437, now before you for consideration, should be entitled a "Bill to injure thrifty people," and particularly working people, in that it prohibits trust companies from paying dividends on savings deposits oftener than once in six months and forbids the payment of interest on deposits withdrawn between dividend days. It should be vetoed by your Excellency.

The majority of bankers favor the measure, because it permits stockholders to get fatter dividends at the expense of depositors. I oppose it, because I believe savers are entitled to every cent of interest their money rightfully earns.

When a bank loans money to a borrower, it charges interest from the moment the loan is made, to the moment the loan is paid. Why, then, should not a bank pay interest to a depositor from the time he places his savings in the bank until the time he withdraws them? The bank earns on the deposits; therefore, it should share the earnings with its depositors.

Savings encourage thrift. Interest encourages savings. The oftener and the higher the interest paid, the more incentive there is for people to place their money in savings departments rather than to risk it in plausible, but profitless schemes.

A person saves as a protection for a rainy day. When that rainy day comes, in the form of sickness, or death, or unemployment, or what not, shall the unfortunate depositor be penalized for his misfortune by having taken from him the interest his money has earned, because untoward fate has struck him between interest days? This is the time when he most needs every possible cent of interest.

A savings department is a poor man's bank. He needs interest more than the stockholder needs a dividend and more than high salaried officers need salaries. Large dividends and high salaries should not be paid at the expense of depositors.

Most banking men say business is business. That is an old idea; I hope it is passing. I say that business should have a heart, and that the profits of a bank should be distributed fairly among all who have made them possible, and this means that depositors should be sharers as well as stockholders.

In any event, your Excellency, let the law, at least stand as it is. Let those of us who believe, as I do, in service, co-operation and security with and for our depositors, continue to share prosperity every month; and do not permit bankers who live for themselves to interfere with any bank which lives for its depositors.

Yours truly,

SIMON SWIG,
Vice-President.

INNOCENT, SAYS WIFE HELD AS SLAYER

DECLARES FISHER A SUICIDE

Columbus Avenue Woman, Accused of Slaying Husband, Is Held for Grand Jury

"I had no hand in my husband's death. I swear it. He killed himself." hysterically cried Marie O. Fisher, twenty, when she was confronted at police headquarters with the evidence which caused the police to suspect her of the murder of Eugene L. Fisher, twenty-four, following a violent quarrel between the pair at their home, No. 520 Columbus avenue.

Weak from weeping, the young wife became violently excited when she was being grilled by Inspector James J. Dennessay, and almost fainted while protesting her innocence.

She stormily attacked the motives of those who testified against her, denied that any significance attached to her purchase of a revolver, and said that rumors that divorce proceedings were to have been begun today had to bear on the tragic shooting at the Columbus avenue home.

Arraigned before Judge Duff in the second session of the Municipal Criminal Court on the charge of murder, a plea of not guilty was automatically entered. She had by that time exhausted herself and was supported at the rail by Court Officer Halloran until Judge Duff granted her permission to be seated.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

She waived examination and was held without bail for the May term of the Grand Jury and remanded to the Charles street jail.

Mrs. Louise Geddes, landlady at the lodging house in which the shooting occurred, told the police investigators that shortly after midnight Mrs. Fisher rushed from her room, pounded on the doors of neighbors and cried out that her husband had shot himself.

"I went into their room with her," testified Mrs. Geddes, "and found Fisher lying in bed with his right arm dangling limply over the side. A 38-calibre revolver with one loaded chamber lay on his body, an exploded cartridge was on the floor and the bullet had entered his head through the right ear."

Mrs. Geddes said she told Mrs.

STATE MUST RETURN TAX OF $1,355 TO DRAPERS

By a decree of Judge Loring of the Supreme Court today the Commonwealth must return to the Draper Manufacturing Company of Hopedale $1,355 which had been illegally assessed. The assessment was made under the "temporary emergency tax" which applies only to foreign corporations doing business in this State. The Draper Company was incorporated in Maine. Besides its principal plant at Hopedale it has 25,000 acres of land and two manufacturing plants in New Hampshire and a branch at Augusta, Ga. The tax was levied on business done by the corporation in 1917 and covered sales of machinery sent to States outside Massachusetts.

Sandusky, O., April 22.—Sandusky will not observe the national daylight saving law after Saturday. City Manager George M. Members of the commission in ordering reversal of the national law declared that the opposition to the fast time in this community was so generally overwhelming that a change was imperative. The city is in the Eastern zone.

OFFICIALS LAY RAISE TO STRIKE

Rate Increase to Come at Once Strike Cost Company $302,-400 and Employes $192,000

Telephone rates will be increased at least 10 per cent. in the immediate future. This was the estimate made today by telephone officials in an unofficial statement analyzing the effects of the recent strike.

The strike is not wholly responsible for the increased charges, it is admitted, as a new schedule containing higher rates was to be published in any case.

The same officials estimated the money loss to the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company caused by the six-day paralysis of wires at $302,400. The telephone operators are estimated to have lost about $92,000 in wages, and the men of the Joint council of Telephone Workers $100,-000.

The new telephone scale, which is being revised as a result of the new conditions brought about by the strike, and the increased wages, will net the New England Company $4,-000,000 increased revenue every year, it is stated.

The loss to the company and the telephone workers was exceeded by the losses maintained by the business men of Boston, according to Chamber of Commerce statisticians, and the aggregate losses to the general public run high into the hundreds of thousands.

In an effort to straighten out the wage schedule and "tie up the loose ends" there was a conference of telephone company officials and representatives of the New England Joint Council of Telephone Workers at No. 50 Oliver street today. Tomorrow the operators will meet General Manager William R. Driver to arrange the details of their new wage schedule.

Praise for Attwill

Seventeen promoters and participants in the Boston Fish Trust have been found guilty BY A JURY of creating a monopoly to boost the prices of one of the most important necessaries of life.

Thus approaches the end of a criminal prosecution of HIGH FINANCE which in years to come will be referred to as one of the outstanding cases in the public life and jurisprudence of Massachusetts. Only some miscarriage of justice that would permit the guilty to escape under cover of some legal technicality stands between the verdict of the twelve peers and final justice.

Attorney-General Attwill and his associates are to be highly commended. One familiar with politics or with the use of the power of wealth and social prestige can imagine the influence which doubtlessly was exerted upon this independent public official, whose record stands out as a beacon light to guide other faithful public servants on the path of duty.

We are told that the outcome of the case, viewed solely in the professional aspect, also is a great tribute to the legal ability and experience of Mr. Attwill. It is said that certain of his associates felt that the law was insufficient to secure conviction. In other words, that the derelict Legislature, in the more than 125 years of its existence, had not passed an anti-monopoly or anti-trust law adequate to protect the people from the exploitations of conniving and unscrupulous financiers. Yet under this seeming handicap, Mr. Attwill presented the case with such skill that the guilt of the trust men was established "beyond reasonable doubt."

The trial illustrates again the old truth, that "regulation" is practically impossible. The door is closed after the horse is gone. Occasionally—very rarely—the guilty are captured, convicted and punished. From this trial the State should take a lesson to itself. Complete control of this industry, so vital to the people, has been left in private hands altogether too long.

"It Is Respectable to Be American"

Hiram Johnson of California Says the Above Notion Should Be Revived. He Is Right.

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

Conditions do not suit Hiram Johnson, Senator from California, and when Johnson is not pleased with conditions he tells you so quite frankly. Here is a statement by Senator Johnson, recommended to your attention. He possesses the faculty of plain speaking:

"It's time for Americans to awake! Five months have passed since the armistice, since we did the job for which America entered the war.

"During all this time we've been afflicted with a mental far-sightedness which enabled us to see the ills and the possibilities of Finland and Poland, of Courland and Lavonia, of Esthonia and Lithuania, of Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia, of Armenia and Syria, and even of the Hedjas of Arabia; but which prevented us from seeing or caring for the ills and problems of our own.

"Five months now after the end of the war we have a million and a half men in France and Germany; American boys in Siberia under Japanese command; American boys in northern Russia under English command, and what this means can be told by the fathers and mothers of Detroit from the letters of their sons.

"Five months after we've made the good fight and won, England is acquiring a world monopoly of oil, and has the cable and radio monopoly, and is reaching for the world's commerce; Japan is in some undisclosed manner endeavoring to establish a foothold upon our border; Korea is in revolt, only held in subjection by ruthless cruelty; China is seething and is publicly notified by Japan that if she publishes the secret treaties which place her in subjection, Japan will punish her.

"Our demobilized soldiers ask only justice and work, and get neither; our ordinary business lags and because of government inactivity or indifference cannot resume its normal condition; unemployment increases daily and foreign agitators play upon distress and discontent.

"Our commuting government hovers around European capitals, basking in the sunlight of foreign adulation.

"The President is in Paris, the Secretary of State there, the Secretary of the Navy in Italy, the Secretary of War on his way to Europe, the heads of various administrative departments are scattered east and west and north and south in Europe—there's nobody home in America.

"It has become a reproach in many quarters now to think in terms of America for America first. It's time to cry a halt. Let's make it respectable to be American again.

"While our future fate is being secretly debated and secretly decided in Paris, and while we are denied the slightest knowledge of decisions which may alter the destiny of the Republic, loyal Americans here may well think of their own. The war has shown us our grave problems.

"Americanization, unemployment, normal business conditions, intelligently grappling with and throttling discontent and resentment which may turn to worse, destruction of any noxious foreign growth which threatens our institutions—all these insistently cry for attention and solution, but are put by for world dreams. Let's care for, guard and protect our own. Bring American boys home and let's be Americans again."

Those that most earnestly appreciate the importance of the RIGHT KIND of peace agreement among nations, the kind that would suit America, will read with attention Senator Johnson's statement.

This country wants peace, would like to have it without fighting, but is willing to fight for it if necessary, as has just been shown.

This nation does not intend, however, to give up any part of its own right, including its powers under the Monroe Doctrine, to prevent European nations from extending their quarrels to this continent. The United States does not intend to be put in a position to be ordered about the globe by other nations or a majority of other nations.

The citizens of this country do not intend that anybody on their behalf shall agree, in case France, England and Italy order it, to conscript American citizens and send them to fight in Armenia, or Russia, or Kamchatka, or to straighten out the problems of the Hedjas of Arabia.

There is enough over here for the people to attend to. It should be sufficient for the United States to say, "We approve peace, we want it. We intend, as we have proved, to make any reasonable sacrifice in behalf of peace. But we do not intend to exchange American sovereignty for European partnership. We intend that only AMERICANS shall have the power to conscript AMERICANS. And that settles it."

LIBERTY LOAN!

By CHARLES MILLER, aged 11, Dorchester.

People of America:

It is our present duty to subscribe for Liberty Bonds. Are you going to sit back and say, "I bought one," and be as the Romans. They got lazy after conquering the world and let other people do their work. When a nation does that she can't keep up very long. Well, that is what happened to the Romans. Our boys went bravely across for US. Now, tell me, who told them to "butt in" with France's war? Didn't Lafayette help us in the Revolutionary war? Now we owe a debt to France we can never repay. If not for France's bravery we would probably not be here today.

I am sure that if I were only old enough I would be in France. For I am only eleven years. I wish I could push Father Time. Some boys died for us while fighting, but many are left on this earth. Are you going to be selfish enough to back out of the little thing our country asks of us? Our boys went across and they did their share. Now we had better do ours and put some speed in it. Get them home quick! They've been away for nearly two years and are longing to get home. Now can't you possibly LEND? Imagine yourself a soldier and think of all the hardships you went under. Now won't you LEND. Don't leave him over there! Don't say, "I don't care, it isn't my boy." Don't have that mean disposition.

"I'll tell you a story my schoolmaster, Mr. Reddy, told some other children and me. A woman once received word from Washington saying, "Come at once. Your son is very sick." The woman immediately went to Washington. Upon arriving she went to the bedside of the boy whom she thought her son, but discovered he was somebody else's boy.

Now do your share as our boys did theirs. BUT LIBERTY BONDS, that's all I say. If you back out, well—just for fun listen to Morton Birge's poem in the Boston American—the best part I think is "To lend is so little, not even to give." Now you're going to buy to please me, aren't you. Anyway, look, you get your money back with reasonable interest. May God bless you and LIBerty live.

Long-Lived Birds

Some birds live to a great age. The age of ninety is known to have been reached by a gray parrot, and there are many statements of birds of the parrot family having lived for over a century. The raven also is credited with having reached one hundred years. The domestic goose is another long-lived bird. Many instances are known of geese attaining forty years. The ordinary domestic fowl is seldom allowed to die of old age, but in some country places old hens that have been made pets are to be seen, and are allowed to remain until they are ten or twelve years old, long previously having ceased to lay.

BUYING THE THINGS ONE CANNOT AFFORD

By Winifred Black

WELL, I bought the blue waist with the silver beads on it, after all.

I really ought not to have bought it. It was more than I could afford and I really didn't need it at all. But there it was in the window, as blue as a blue sky in April after the March storms have passed. As light as a feather—and there was something soft and feathery about it that made me feel pleasant and happy to look at it.

"That's my waist!" I said to myself, the minute my eyes looked upon it. "But of course I'm not going to buy it."

But of course I did. I went by the window three or four times, all the time saying to myself:

"I really would like that waist—if I could afford it. But I can't—so that's the end of it."

And there it is this very minute, in the box in my closet, all wrapped up in soft white tissue paper, and just to think of it makes me smile.

This afternoon some one is coming to see me, some one that I knew when I was very happy and laughed a great deal, and knew a great many songs, and always had flowers to wear and never worried about what was going to become of those I loved when I am gone. I think I bought the waist just on purpose to wear for this special occasion—that just for once I'd like to look young and light-hearted and gay again. Just for once I'd like to feel as that waist looks—I am glad I bought it.

I wonder what the things are that we really can afford in this world. Sometimes it is hard to decide, isn't it?

Things One Can't Afford

It is a short journey we take—a short one and sometimes a troubled one—through this thing we call life. What's the use of taking it at all if we are never going to have any of the things we really want, just because we think we can't afford them?

I took an hour the other day that I couldn't afford at all. I had so much to do that I didn't know what to do first—so I didn't do anything. I just picked up a foolish book, and got a box of candy, and put on a nice soft gown and curled up in the corner of the couch and read and ate candy. And all the time somebody was playing the piano in the next room—a little, foolish, lilting tune, and it sounded good to me, and I was somehow happy. I am glad I stole that hour I couldn't afford, for it did me a whole lot of good.

I could not afford to know the woman I met on the train. She really wasn't quite a nice woman, it was perfectly easy to see that the minute you looked at her.

Her face was rather hard, and her hair was not at all the color it ought to be, and her clothes were really too young for her, and she really wore a great many—too many—rings. Her voice, too, was not quite what it should be——

But, oh, there was something in her eyes—a lonely look, friendless and hopeless and desperate, and it called me right across the aisle!

Lessons in Tolerance

I made an excuse and went and talked with her, and before the day was done we were friends, and I am glad of it. I think her eyes weren't quite so desperate when she said good-by. And as for me, I learned a lesson in tolerance and human charity that I never would have learned if I hadn't started that friendship with the woman I couldn't afford to know.

Hurrah! I am glad I bought the little blue waist with the silver beads. When it is gone I'm going to buy another as near like it as I can.

Isn't that a desperate thing to do—with my own money—when I can't afford it?

Buy the Victory Bonds with earnest realization of what the loan means.

This is a serious period in the history of the world, and every nation.

This Victory Loan, to which you are asked to subscribe, is the test of national loyalty.

You may hear many reasons, sound and selfish, why you should buy Victory Bonds.

They are the best bonds that have ever been offered anywhere.

Before the war, when the country was not as rich as it is today, 4 per cent. bonds sold above 130. The 4¼ per cent. bonds offered today will sell far above par.

The banks will want them. They carry exemption from income tax when transferred into a 3½ per cent. bond.

Tax exempt bonds bearing only 3 per cent. sold above par, when there was no certainty as to how many billions of bonds the government might issue. These tax exempt bonds bearing three-quarters of one per cent. higher interest will sell above par inevitably and soon.

When the bonds are sold, the LAST that the government will offer, according to its solemn pledge, the whole debt of the United States will not amount to ONE-HALF of ONE YEAR'S income of the United States, including the outstanding Treasury certificates.

And Europe owes us more than ten billions, or half of our whole debt.

The bonds will be secure when nothing else is secure. They are a FIRST mortgage, and a LAST mortgage on this great country, separated on each side by wide oceans from the disturbances of Europe and of Asia.

No such bond as the one offered today ever was offered in any nation at any time in the world!

To buy these bonds, keeping them for yourself, your children, for the absolutely certain profit that will come in the rise above par, is common sense.

But there is something in this Victory Loan infinitely more important than certain profit. The loan will represent the faith of the people of this country in their kind of government.

The present world disturbance is no passing agitation, no mere "unsettled" period, such as has followed other wars.

The question at issue today is this: Shall democratic government survive, or shall new and reckless experiments be made, such experiments as have brought Russia to anarchy and starvation, experiments that have already seized upon Central and Eastern Europe, and that threaten Europe's western civilized strip?

The answer to this question will come in the subscriptions to this Victory Loan.

At this moment the United States is fortunate above all other countries. Our friends in Europe lost more than seven millions killed in war. The United States lost fifty thousand. Our friends spent scores of billions and literally beggared themselves.

And we have spent far all less than one-half of ONE year's income of this country. It is as though a man with an annual income of fifty thousand dollars had gone through the one dangerous crisis of his life at a total expense of twenty thousand dollars.

The man of small means who does not buy a Victory Bond neglects the interest of his children and his own interest because he neglects the most magnificent investment ever offered in any country at any time. But that is as nothing compared with the fact that he neglects also his national safety and that of his family. He helps to advertise the fact that because the war is over patriotism has died down with the shouting.

As for the rich man, the man with an income beginning at fifty thousand dollars a year and ruling up to fifty millions a year—both those incomes exist in the United States—it is his business to see to it that the Victory Loan is heavily oversubscribed, not in THREE weeks, but in the FIRST WEEK, the first six days.

This WORLD is on fire. The news from Italy today is, if not exaggerated, the most alarming that could be read. From other European countries, from all points except this fortunate country, the news is bad. In Great Britain appears the first serious Bolsheviki demonstration, a demand by organized Socialists that Soviet government rule Great Britain. In England they have got past the point where they dare try to solve agitation by putting men in jail for what they say. That doesn't work there.

This is no time for quibbling in any matter affecting government support.

You need your country's government, your government needs your money, borrows it of you on terms extravagantly generous and absolutely safe.

Wireless Telephony Between Airmen Is Successful

London, April 22 — Conversation between two airmen traveling in machines several miles apart has been rendered possible by the wireless telephony discovery announced in the House of Commons by General Seely, of the Air Ministry.

Wireless telephony to airplanes has been carried on in the United States, but so far as is known the communication has been in one direction. Intercommunication between planes has not been accomplished in the air, but replies have been received on the ground from travelling machines.

"In a short time," said an officer of the Air Ministry, "it should be practicable for a business man journeying from London to Manchester by air to issue instructions to his chief clerk, perhaps in another plane.

"Messages have been sent from the ground, but no answer has been possible.

"I believe the new invention will revolutionize communication in the air, for enables a craft to send to another while flying and to receive; also to send to the ground and receive in return."

TAGUE TO TAKE TWO DAYS FOR REBUTTAL

Entitled to Ten, but Will Soon Complete Case in Fight With Fitz

At the resumption of the Tague-Fitzgerald contest for possession of the seat of the Tenth Congressional District in the Federal Building today, Joseph F. O'Connell, chief counsel for Tague, opened the case in rebuttal for the former congressman.

He announced that while he is entitled to ten days for rebuttal, he would require but two days.

The first witness today was William Mahoney, clerk for the election commissioners. He was questioned by O'Connell relative to the registration of Patrick Goggin of the Boston fire department, registered from Tague's Charlestown residence. He was further questioned regarding the registration of Martin J. Turnbull, superintendent of rope-walk in the navy yard, who also registered from the Charlestown residence occupied by Tague's mother and sister.

Mahoney testified that the official records show that Goggin and Turnbull were not checked off as having voted at the State primaries and the election last fall. It was fair to assume, the witness said, that they had not voted at all.

Under cross-examination by Attorney Timothy L. Callahan, counsel for Fitzgerald, he said he based his presumption on the accuracy and honesty of the election officers who checked off the names of those who had voted.

Arthur Harrington of Charlestown, one of the counsel for Tague, testified that while Tague was ready to have a hearing before the election commissioners, that no invitation from the commissioners was received. This hearing was in regards to the alleged illegal registration.

MAY BOND AUTO OWNERS SAYS ATTY.-GEN. ATTWILL

It is within the constitutional authority of the Legislature to require every automobile owner to furnish a bond to indemnify persons who may be injured as a result of its operation, according to an opinion furnished the Senate by Attorney-General Henry C. Attwill, who held that a bill requiring the bonding of each holder of an operator's license would be discriminating and unconstitutional.

VEDIC BRINGS 200 MORE Y.D. MEN

Liner Brings Altogether 2,000 Troops to Boston; Edwards in Welcoming Party

she steamed up the harbor from President Roads, where she had been at anchor for an hour or two. The welcoming fleet was smaller than has been the case with the coming of ships during the past week or two, but withal it was enthusiastic.

At the pier there was a goodly gathering of New Englanders and folk from Missouri who had come to greet their kinfolks aboard the big ship. Colonel W. J. Wagner, commanding the 128th Field Artillery of the 26th (Santa Fe) Division, was the senior officer aboard. His men constituted the major portion of the ship's company.

OFFICERS TRUE "YANKEES."

The Yankee Division casuals were under command of Lieutenant J. X. O'Brien, of Butte, Montana; Lieutenant G. S. Maloney, Ladysmith, Wisconsin, and Lieutenant H. J. Jenkins, of Pennsylvania. The Y. D. on their shoulders carried them as true Yankees and their association with the unit overseas had turned them into sure enough Yanks long ere they came into Boston.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards was the first person over the gangplank after the Vedic made fast, and while his reception was much different from that he had received in the past, it was nevertheless wholehearted from those of his "stouthearted lads" who were aboard.

The Vedic brought 1,370 men and fifty-two officers of the 128th Field Artillery. Her casuals numbered 858 men and eight officers, making the total of troops aboard 2,228 men and sixty officers.

For some unexplained reason Rear Admiral S. S. Wood decreed that newspaper men were not to board the Vedic and consequently the chances of securing stories of the daring and bravery of the Missouri fighters, who served at the Meuse, Argonne, St. Mihiel and Verdun fronts were few and far between. It was possible, however, to stand ashore and discern that the band of the outfit wasn't at the dock when the Yankee Division bands that came home.

"BATTLE OF THE BANDS."

While the ship was warping into her pier a battle of music developed between the 128th Band and the band which the Mayor's committee had ashore to blast forth a welcome. The Missourians, under Lieutenant Phillips, played the "Missouri Waltz" and "Yankee Doodle." The Boston band played "Dixie" and other Southern melodies as an evidence of pleasure at greeting men from another State back into the United States.

The Vedic was fast ahead after 10 o'clock, and within an hour and a half every man aboard had gone ashore. And after having been given hot coffee, rolls and other articles of foodstuff they were aboard troop trains for the run down to Camp Devens. The whole affair was run off with neatness and dispatch.

Capt. Alvin E. Foss of Melrose, Just Promoted, Commands French Town

After going "over the top" at the head of his men in both the St. Mihiel and Argonne fighting, Alvin E. Foss of Company L, 871st Infantry, has been promoted to the captaincy of his company. Foss is a former member of the Harvard Regiment and a graduate of the second Plattsburg camp. His home is at No. 109 Cottage street, Melrose.

Captain Foss is convalescing at Mussey la Fosse, a village near Dijon, of which town he is commandant, according to advices received by Boston friends. An injury to a leg keeps him temporarily on his back, but he hopes to be home soon with his company.

"We had gone about fifty yards when all the machine guns in the German army opened on us," writes Foss, in describing his sortie in the Argonne sector. "I lost quite a few men, but we advanced to our objective, a mile and a quarter ahead. It was the heights a mile north of Grand Pre which our battalion took. It was October 25 at dawn when we went over and after nine days' holding we were relieved."

Hundreds of Heroes Seeking Tickets for Entertainments Here

Although comparatively few Yankee Division veterans are in Boston, Chairman E. P. Barry of the Mayor's Entertainment Committee at No. 203 Tremont street today was deluged with hundreds of requests from soldiers of other overseas divisions for theatre tickets, automobile rides and hotel accommodations, all of which were granted.

Seats for veterans were set aside by the Professional Women's Club for their play today and tomorrow, and every day there are seats available for the Shubert, Wilbur, Plymouth, Majestic, Hollis Street, Colonial, Tremont, Park Square and Waldorf theatres.

Mrs. M. D. Alexander and Miss Elizabeth Leland, Brookline women, today took four wounded soldiers from Parker Hill Hospital to Camp Devens to witness the review. Demand is large for seats for the boxing show at the Grand Opera House Thursday night, when only members of the Yankee Division will be accommodated.

Chairman Barry was visited today by Rabbi B. J. Risenan of Headquarters Company, 101st Infantry, who has two sons in the service and a daughter active in war work. Risenan paid high tribute to Colonel Logan Vanderslip.

Thank American for Aid in Winning Phone Fight

George L. Kelley, secretary-treasurer of the Joint Council of New England Telephone Workers, on behalf of the council, issued the following statement today regarding the strike settlement:

"I wish to express on behalf of our joint council our profound appreciation of the wonderful service and assistance rendered to us by Mayor Peters, who so materially assisted in bringing us together. I think that we have demonstrated conclusively our desire to co-operate with the Mayor, the government and the telephone company with a view to relieving a situation which was so regrettable for the public.

"The workers wish to heartily thank the Boston American also for the great work it did in preparing before the public lucidly and clearly the real reason for the strike. And in this respect we want to thank the Boston American particularly for its open letter to Mr. Burlsson, printed conspicuously on the front page. This, we telephone workers believe, did more than anything else to bring to Mr. Burlsson's attention the real justice of our fight, with the bare exception of the visit of the Mayor to Washington."

HUSBAND SHOT DEAD; GIRL WIFE HELD

Fisher, "You've killed your own husband," and that the women then said he had killed himself, which she repeated when brought before the police officials.

ALLEGES ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE.

Mrs. Fisher then tried to escape, according to the landlady, but she insisted that the wife remain and face the inevitable investigation. Mrs. Fisher denied any attempt to run away.

Mark Nelson, pawnbroker, identified Mrs. Fisher as a woman to whom he had sold a 38-calibre revolver, and said she gave him the assumed name of Harriet Adams when making the purchase.

The police say that they have evidence that the Fishers disagreed violently during their recent married life, and that divorce proceedings would have been begun today or tomorrow if the husband had lived.

Seeking a possible motive for the alleged crime, police officials today were investigating a $10,000 life insurance policy said to have been held by the dead man with the Marine Life Insurance Company. The police sought to learn the name of the beneficiary, said to be Fisher's father.

According to Mrs. Fisher, the couple formerly lived in Lewiston, Me., and they were admitted to the Columbus avenue lodging house one week ago today. Due to frequent and violent quarreling, however, said to have annoyed other occupants of the house, lodgers said that the landlady had ordered the couple to vacate, and they were to have left today.

MARINES FINED FOR RIOT AT NEWPORT

Several Severely Wounded as Police Use Clubs to Prevent Rescue of Prisoner

Newport, R. I., April 22.—Seven marines, arrested during rioting last night, were fined $10 in District Court today. An eighth marine was fined $5. Two of the marines had their heads cut by policemen's clubs and one had a black eye.

During the court proceedings, Captain Baird of the marines, who said he was from Texas, created a sensation by his denunciation of the police.

This, Captain Baird said, was for brutal clubbing of his men by police. Chief Tobin of the police ordered Captain Baird to leave the room.

When Walter Herbert, an ex-member of the marine corps, was arrested for obstructing the sidewalk last night, the trouble began. Word was flashed to Army and Navy Headquarters at the Newport Y. M. C. A., "Boys, are you going to see a marine arrested?" About 100 marines scooped down upon the officer. As the plotting increased, a squad of police came from headquarters and used clubs freely. Eight marines were taken to the station.

'BIG FOUR' TAKE UP JAPAN'S CLAIMS

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
Correspondent of the International News Service.

Paris, April 22.—The Big Four met today to hear the Japanese claims. These relate chiefly to Kiao-Chou, which the Japanese and the British captured from the Germans early in the war.

(Kiao-Chau is in China. Germany secured a 99-year leasehold on the port and built a fortress there.)

The Japanese claims threaten to precipitate further trouble, as it is understood the Chinese delegation is going to make vigorous opposition to some of them.

The Echo de Paris, in commenting today upon the latest phase of the peace developments, expresses the fear that President Wilson is applying the fourteen principles arbitrarily."

A French semi-official sources it is reported that an alliance of the United States, Great Britain and France is now completed. According to this agreement, it is said, any aggression by Germany in the future will be accepted as an act of war against the Triple Alliance.

"TRIPLE ALLIANCE" DENIED.

While denial that such an arrangement has been made was issued from American headquarters, the fact was emphasized that promises made to Premier Clemenceau while President Wilson was absent in the United States have created a serious situation. It is learned from high authority that the President's position is as follows:

Before returning to the United States for the adjournment of Congress he voted the proposal to create a Rhenish republic to act as a buffer state between France and Germany.

During his absence Colonel E. M. House, temporarily head of the American mission, accepted the plan for a republic, with the alternative that if it were rejected a triple alliance be created with the United States, Great Britain and France members of it. The three allies were to pledge themselves to accept German aggressions over the Rhine as an act of war.

VETOED HOUSE'S PLAN.

When the President was informed of this plan he vetoed it forthwith, pointing out that Congress alone had the authority to declare war in the United States.

Premier Clemenceau and other French officials insisted that they could not surrender their demand for a Rhenish republic unless assured that the nation would be safeguarded by allied armies. Several days of discussion followed. Finally the President agreed to present the claims of France, along this line, to the American Congress directly. He made it plain, however, that he was acting only as the medium of communication, but whether the President agreed to submit a recommendation along with the French demands I have not been able to find out as yet.

IDENTIFIES LETTER AT TRIAL

Mother, She Says, Opposed Wedding as Carpenter Was "Out of Her Set"

"Greeley Weston is not a good man, but he is not a bad man. I know myself as well that I know that if he were to go to hell, which God forbid, and if I were to go to heaven, I would choose to go to hell and be happier making things easier for him there than all the joys of Heaven could make me."

Helen Bridge Andrews, sixty-five-year-old Brookline woman, identified this letter as one that expressed her sentiments regarding Horace Greeley Weston then, "and they express them now," she added.

KEPT SECRET FROM MOTHER.

The letter was offered as an exhibit in the case of Miss Andrews, who is seeking to recover from Weston the properties that she gave him in anticipation of her marriage.

These transfers she withheld from knowledge of her mother because she opposed the marriage of her daughter to the carpenter.

"My mother did not want me to marry out of my set," she said. "She was a very bright woman, much brighter than I am, and in business I always took her advice."

The witness said that Weston did not know that she was to give him any property but after the transfer was made the holdings were listed in the name of Weston's wife.

"After he got in some legal trouble with another woman we thought it was safer," she said. Miss Andrews is seeking to recover this property that she gave to Weston in the Equity Session of the Superior Court.

NEVER ASKED FOR MONEY.

"Mr. Weston never asked me for one cent of my money. What I gave him I gave him of my own free will," she stated, in reply to a question as to her allowing Weston to spend $6,000 on a house in Cape Elizabeth, Me.

This house, the witness claimed, was in hers and Weston's name. "I wanted to tie up my real estate so that none could get it away from me."

The witness said she was sixty-five years old, the daughter of Major-General Andrews. She said she had two brothers, but they died of scarlet fever, and that she had the disease when she was thirteen.

She had lived in Brookline in 1893, and this property was bought by her father. This property was deeded to her by her mother, as well as stocks and other securities, during the illness of the witness' mother, previous to her death, she said.

Asked to enumerate these securities, she enumerated eighteen shares New York, New Haven & Hartford stocks, thirty shares of telephone stock, five Missouri Valley bonds, five of Canadian Pacific bonds, and others that she could not recall.

Miss Andrews approximated the value of these holdings as $30,000 or $40,000 and said that the Brookline property now was worth about $40,000.

Q.—Tell the court about the transfer of these bonds to Sidney Larrabee? A. — Mr. Larrabee was my lawyer, and he told me I must convey it to him before I could be transferred to Mr. Weston. I gave it to him because I expected to marry him, and I thought he'd help me take care of it.

Q.—Did you tell your mother you had transferred it? A.—No. I had to be very careful what I told her for fear of the shock.

Q.—Wasn't it because she objected to your receiving attentions from Mr. Weston? A.—My mother objected to my marrying Mr. Weston because she felt that I would be marrying out of my set.

Q.—At that time you believed that you were betrothed to Mr. Weston. A.—We both believed it.

JUST WENT AHEAD.

The witness further said that Weston did not know that she was going to give him any property. She said she didn't talk it over with him, she just "went and did it."

The stock in the telephone company was transferred to Weston, in the name of his wife, "because we both thought it would be safer that way." She said that during the time he had the stock he had the use of the dividends, with her permission.

Miss Andrews said that the Andrews family, just as soon as her mother died, attempted to break the will. She said that she feared that her cousins would come to her, when she was sick, and get her to sign property away from her. "I don't say they did it, but I feared that they would." They threatened to have a conservator appointed for her, the witness said.

CARNEGIE GIVES DAUGHTER IN MARRIAGE

Richest of Heiresses Becomes Bride of Ensign Miller, With Simple Ceremony

By International News Service.

New York, April 22.—The world's richest heiress was married today with a ceremony as simple as that of the wedding of some small town grocer's daughter.

Andrew Carnegie gave away his twenty-two-year-old daughter, Margaret, to Ensign Roswell Miller of the United States Navy, before a little gathering of relatives and friends in one of the small dining rooms of the $2,000,000 Carnegie mansion on Upper Fifth avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Pierson Merrill, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, before an altar banked high with springtime blossoms and wild flowers.

The wedding was the result of a war-time romance, though the Carnegie and Miller families have been friends since the Civil War. Young Miller's sister, Dorothy, gave a dinner in honor of her brother when he came home from France, where he had been driving an ambulance, and enlisted in the United States navy when this country entered the war. Miss Carnegie was a guest. A few months after the meeting their engagement was announced.

Dorothy Miller was Miss Carnegie's attendant today until the steel king himself escorted his daughter up the aisle to strains from a pipe organ in the hall. The bride wore a white satin point applique lace. Her veil was of the same material and her mother helped make it. Close friends of Ensign Miller, James B. Walker, Jr., of Chicago, William H. Seward of Boston, Erskine N. White and Robert A. Franks, Jr., of New York, were ushers.

A big crowd gathered outside the Carnegie home to await the appearance of the bridal couple who left on a honeymoon immediately after the wedding breakfast. In three or four months they will return to Princeton, N. J., where Ensign Miller will resume his course in civil engineering at Princeton University.

NEW ENGLAND'S OWN

This is the poem chosen by the official Committee of Welcome appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts and the Mayor of Boston. The poem was selected in a competition in which the entire State took part.

By NANCY BYRD TURNER.

There's a sound that swells to the listening sky, and breaks, and swells again—
A sound to the April breezes blown of a host of marching men;
And the people's hearts lift up to hear, and the city's gates swing wide
To the tramp of twenty thousand strong, the beat of a tawny tide.
They come, they come with the throbbing drum! Let the glad word be known!
Fling the flags to the four free winds, and greet New England's Own!

These were the eager-hearted ones when first the bugles blew;
The clean north winds had swept their souls before the war-flags flew.
They set their faces like the flint of the old north country hills;
They pledged their manhood without stint, and their young, intrepid wills.
They did not stay for the perilous way. Forward! their cry was thrown;
Stout hearts might well have faltered then—but not New England's Own!

They caught the spurt of the first red stars that flamed the battle sign;
They gave their bodies as iron bars to weld the battle line;
Aisne-Marne, Chavignon, St. Mihiel. Meuse-Argonne—east and west—
The old strange names, familiar now, as heart-beats in each breast,
And keen with memories of those they left to sleep alone,
Dust to dust in an alien land, yet still New England's Own.

They dreamed the dreams of peace and youth, but when the storm was rife
They counted comfort less than truth and honor more than life.
Each with his starry flag above, his weapon in his hand,
Fought for earth's liberty, and love, and his own dear native land;
Walked blindly in the smoking ways, that the light his eyes had known
Might never perish from the shore that sent New England's Own.

There's a sound that swells in the April air till it shakes the marketplace—
The tread of a host of marching men who have looked death in the face;
Who have staggered back from the brink of hell to find the world still sweet
And the dust of God's own country gray once more upon their feet.
They come, they come with the throbbing drum! Let the high flag be flown—
The flag they shed their blood to keep, and kept—New England's Own!

Reprinted from the official book of salutations to the 26th Division by permission of Addison B. Winship, chairman of the committee of welcome, appointed by Governor Coolidge and Mayor Peters.

SECOND TRIAL OF SOLDIER FOR GIRL'S DEATH

Warm Watches Selection of Jury in Jennie Hemmin-way Case

St. Albans, Vt., April 22.—Robert Warm, the young former soldier attached to Fort Ethan Allen, today faced the first day of his second trial here charged with the murder of fourteen-year-old Jennie Hemingway. The alleged murder took place on the night of August 14, 1917. Warm was granted a second trial after having been convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to a term of years in State prison.

The first day's proceedings were given over to securing a jury. Up to 11 a. m. seven had been excused as jurors.

Warm was brought into court shortly after it convened. He was dressed in a blue serge suit and appeared more cheerful than at his previous trial. He walked briskly and appeared interested in his surroundings. Seated between the manacles of junior counsel, C. J. and Roswell M. Austin, he looked over the shoulder of the latter as Mr. Austin wrote down the names of jurymen chosen, and in one case offered a correction.

Only a few spectators were in the court room.

State Attorney A. B. Rowley of Richford, recently elected, was in court, but is not prosecuting the case. Being unfamiliar with the previous proceedings, he turned over the prosecution to those who handled the case before: Former State Attorney W. R. McFeeters and former Attorney-General Rufus E. Brown of Burlington.

TROOPS IN WAR TOGS PATROL LIMERICK

Exchange Shots With Strikers Who Parade Singing "The Red Flag"

By International News Service.

Limerick, Ireland, April 22.—This city is an armed camp, with large forces of soldiers, supported with tanks and machine guns, preventing strike disorders. Numerous shots were fired Monday morning, but there were no casualties.

The troops are in full war panopoly, even to their "tin hats." All the roads leading into the city are guarded and at some points barbed wire entanglements have been set up. The principal bridge over the Shannon is being patrolled.

Tanks are drawn up in the principal streets with the guns trained to sweep the thoroughfares. The muzzles of Lewis (machine) guns are menacingly from the windows of buildings. Armored cars lumber through the streets, and at night the city is patrolled by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

In the face of all this military preparation, the strikers declare that they are "running the city and doing it well."

Strikers made a demonstration on Easter Monday, the anniversary of the Dublin uprising in 1916. They marched through the streets singing "The Red Flag" and other Socialist songs.

It is reported that representatives of the strikers have been sent to other cities in an effort to bring about a general walkout. Many sections of Ireland are contributing funds to help the strikers combat martial law. The strike committee is organizing food distribution depots and is issuing currency.

MISSING GIRLS' WHEREABOUTS IS MYSTERY

Relatives Cannot Account for Sudden Departure Taken on Good Friday

The mysterious disappearance of three Greater Boston girls, all under fifteen years of age, came to light today when an appeal was made to the American to help locate pretty little twelve-year-old Margaret M. Glennon of Roxbury, a well-known singer, dancer and soloist.

The Glennon girl disappeared after attending Good Friday services at St. Joseph's Church. At the same time, Lillian Quinn, fourteen, of No. 77 Cedar street, Roxbury, and Maude Murphy, fourteen, of Sawyer street, Malden, dropped out of sight. The Murphy girl was a playmate of the Quinn child and the latter was a friend of Margaret Glennon. It is believed that they either agreed to run away together or were enticed to leave their homes.

SCOUTED BY AUNT.

The theory that the Glennon girl left home of her own free will is scouted by her aunt, Miss Mary M. Glennon, of Herman street, Roxbury. The child was popular among her elders as well as among the children of her neighborhood around Regent street where she lived with her father, Daniel F. Glennon. She attended St. Joseph's Parochial School and stood at the head of her class in the seventh grade.

Although the police of Malden and Boston were immediately notified when the girls did not return to their respective homes Friday night, no clew as to their whereabouts has been uncovered. The notification of the New York police in the vain hope that the girls had started for that city to visit relatives of the Murphy child was without result.

WAS VERY POPULAR.

Mrs. Mary Quinn, mother of Lillian, can advance no reason why her child should have left home. She was always a well-behaved and popular girl.

The Murphy girl recently moved with her parents from Roxbury to Malden.

EXTENSIVE PLAN FOR N. E. COAST DEFENCE

General Ruckman to Outline Needed Work at Washington Conference

The coast defences of New England will be considered at a conference at Washington, to which Brigadier-General John W. Ruckman, commanding the North Atlantic Coast Artillery district, was summoned by telegraph today. General Ruckman will spend a month in Washington.

For months the general has given much of his time to a systematic study of what should constitute the coast defence of New England.

Boston Harbor has been gone over carefully and what will be necessary to protect this city, Cape Cod Canal and other sections of the Cape, in the event of attack, has been thoroughly studied.

According to the new plans laid down for defending the New England coast, no foreign battleship or cruiser can get within fifty miles of the coast. So complete have the plans been made in this respect that General Ruckman has been asked to give the results of his investigations before this conference.

During the absence of the general, Colonel W. W. Bess will be in charge of the district.

Can't Forget Martyrdom of 70,000 in France

Is America going to forget those 70,000 dead Yankee heroes now lying in French graves? Is America going to forget that sterling officer, who, when mortally wounded, declined the proffer of help from litter bearers and insisted that his three wounded men, close by, be removed first? Is America going to forget the valor of those bandsmen, who dropped their instruments to carry litters through the hail of bullets? Is America going to forget the work of the old 69th? I decline to believe it. There will be no such loss of memory unless I mistake my country.—Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole at Victory Loan rally in New York.

Early Response to Victory Loan Exceeds All Previous Records

Washington, April 22.—The whole country seems to have entered into the spirit of "finishing the job."

With the Victory loan drive now in full swing, treasury officials today were busy tabulating the first returns and expected to be able, before the end of the day, to announce roughly the amount of subscriptions on the opening day.

Reports from widely separated cities and towns, from one end of the country to the other, told of early filling of quotas, and these strengthened the belief of treasury officials that in the end it will be necessary to turn back a considerable subscription.

A tone of optimism featured the scores of telegrams that arrived at the Treasury Department today. A few outstanding comments from chairmen of federal reserve districts, characteristic of virtually every report received, were made public.

"Advanced pledges to loan much greater than any previous campaign," was the message that came from the Cleveland federal reserve district. Philadelphia wired that "Not one-tenth as much enthusiasm ever has been evidenced in connection with a loan."

From Chicago came the message: "Reports from all States in district indicate boundless enthusiasm. Most auspicious opening ever vouchsafed any loan in Chicago."

"Reports from throughout district indicate plenty of enthusiasm," was the message from San Francisco.

St. Louis notified the treasury that the district "got away to good start, three Missouri, two Illinois, one Arkansas and one Mississippi county going over. Memphis trying to reach quota this week. St. Louis start fine."

Boston reported: "Thirty-five million dollars unofficially reported. Twenty-four cities and towns exceed quota, headed by Proctor, Vt., with 300 per cent. oversubscription."

John W. Sisley, executive chairman of the Detroit Victory Liberty Loan Committee, telegraphed Secretary Glass today that the city of Detroit had oversubscribed its quota.

BOSTON-WORCESTER AIR FLIGHT FOR "V" LOAN

Worcester, April 22.—Six airplanes will race from Boston to Worcester Saturday afternoon in the interest of the Liberty Loan. Lieutenant C. B. Stead of Boston visited this city to arrange for the flight. The machines will land at the New England fair grounds, and according to Lieutenant Stead, special efforts will be made by each contestant to establish a record time between the two cities.

The sum of $100,000 has already been subscribed. The women's committee, chairmaned by Mrs. J. Chester Hutchinson, will aid the loan.

HOUSE-TO-HOUSE WORK FOR BEVERLY'S QUOTA

Beverly, April 22.—House to house campaigning for the Victory Loan is a feature of Beverly's effort to raise its quota of $1,620,000. A booth in City Hall square is in charge of a committee of women, headed by Miss Winifred King. Masonic Hall is Liberty Loan headquarters.

Liberty Loan Sidelights

The Ward 8 Women's Liberty Loan Committee is making a thorough canvass of Ward under the direction of Mrs. John T. Wheelwright of West Cedar street, who is assisted by Mrs. Timothee Adamowski. Satisfactory progress is reported by the committee.

Boy Scouts will see that no one who passes on or near the intersection of Beacon and Charles streets between 5 and 6 o'clock each night fails to be asked to subscribe to the Victory Loan. The scouts will distribute cards and secure pledges for the Women's Liberty Loan Committee of Boston.

* * *

The Mothers' Club, under direction of Mrs. Thomas Aspell, will buy a side and offer it as a prize to be given by the women's committee in furtherance of campaign work.

* * *

To aid the loan drive among non-English-speaking peoples a Victory Loan bazaar is to be held at Commonwealth Armory the first week in May. Each nationality will have a booth of its own and national songs will be sung and folk dances given.

The Professional Women's Committee has volunteered its services in behalf of the loan in one of the big department stores. A reception will be given by such committee on May 4 to Mrs. Antoinette Funk, vice-chairman of the National Committee at Washington, at the Business Women's Club.

Newton was visited by a battle scarred whippet tank today. It visited every one of the ten villages of which Newton is composed, stopped ten minutes in each and was accompanied by ten Boy Scouts. As a boom to the loan drive, it made a two-strike, four-workers report. The town has already absorbed seven-tenths of its $4,370,000 quota. Private C. B. Cosgrove, a Newton boy with Company C of the 101st Infantry, was one of those who stood on the tank and spoke.

The firing squadron, headed by Mrs. William F. Merrill with Mrs. Wilbur Diggins driving, started in a gaily decorated model truck from the Commonwealth Armory at 10 o'clock this morning. Lieut. Hall Mallard of the United States Air Service speeding and eight young women in Liberty Loan costume to sell bonds to crowds of people in the business district were attracted by rallies during the early afternoon hours. Mrs. John Higginson, Miss Mary Grey, Miss Frances Bashell, Miss Louise Brooks, Miss Dorothy Stevens, Miss Caroline Almy, Miss Ruth Adams and Miss Dorothy Warren were also present.

* * *

Mrs. Chester H. Taylor, Jr., is captain of an attractive booth in the lobby of the Copley Plaza Hotel. Girls in charge of recruits were attired in white costume with flags of the Allies from that of the United States. Assisting Mrs. Taylor were Miss Charlotte M. Duncan and Mrs. Prescott Hyde. Mrs. Rodman Fay will assist Mrs. Taylor today.

Decorated with the flags of their respective countries supporting those of the United States, the "foreign" booths were distinctive features in the opening of the Victory Liberty Loan. The Italian booth in Pemberton Square did an excellent business and better is promised for today. The Belgian booth on Tremont street near the corner of Temple place had crowds about it most of the time as did also the French booth at the corner of Tremont and Mason streets. The Polish women promise to have their booth open today.

* * *

Mrs. Mary Agnes Mahon of the executive committee of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of Massachusetts, addressed the Woman's Club of Newton Upper Falls at its guest night entertainment.

Northampton women are subduing their present efforts in the Victory Liberty Loan. Under the direction of Mrs. T. J. Hammond, chairman for Hampshire County, they will have a booth for the sale of bonds in the main street of the town for the duration of the Victory 5th campaign.

War Savings Bab, a Scottish terrier belonging to Mrs. Harriet Kimball, vice-chairman of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of Massachusetts, is the mascot in the "Spectre What You Preach Parade," carrying a pledge for a Victory 5th bond.

We know White House Aluminum Ware as a parent knows a favorite child. We assume that you know it only by reputation; but if you have any in your home now, you know it is as good as the day you bought it, no matter when that was. If you now have a full kitchen equipment of White House Aluminum Ware, will you not do one of your neighbors the great kindness of calling her attention to this notable no-money-down offer?

For while we would not bar old customers, we are distributing twenty thousand of these sets solely for advertising purposes and with no thought of immediate profit. The offer is open to every reliable married lady, or her husband, in the United States, but particularly to those who do not know by personal experience that "White House" on aluminum ware has a meaning similar to "Sterling" on silverware, or the national emblem on a gold coin.

ORDNANCE MEN WANT JUSTICE OR DISCHARGE

Kept at Camp at Soldiers' Pay and Forced to Do Work of Skilled Mechanics

Editor American:

The soldiers at Camp Devens realize fully the keen interest which the Boston American has always taken in their affairs. And so, acting upon this knowledge, we, who are members of the 103d Ordnance Depot, ask you to bring a few facts to the notice of the public so that our present situation may be appreciated and then altered.

Day after day we have witnessed thousands of men pass through this camp on their way to their homes. We have always thought that our time was soon to come. But now we seem to be farther away from it than ever, great despite the fact that there are many strong reasons why we should be discharged.

HAVE SERVED FAITHFULLY.

In the first place many of us have served here now since the opening of the camp, and those who are familiar with ordnance work realize that a day spent in this department means a day of hard and laborious toil. Amid the severity of Winter and the heat of Summer we have toiled on, and we have made no complaint. While our work is in progress, we served faithfully, and even since the armistice has been signed, we have been no less enthusiastic about our labor.

Besides there are many men here whose services are absolutely needed at home. There are a number of us who are married, and not a few have children to support as well as wives. Surely some remedy should be found for us, for every one realizes the impossibility of supporting a family on the wages of a soldier.

We are not unwilling to serve the government, but we believe that a workman is worthy of his hire. We are mostly skilled mechanics, and the work which we are now called upon to do is work that is being done in arsenals by men who are drawing high wages for doing it.

Some time ago we were promised that our rating should be that of civil employes with corresponding remuneration for our work, but that promise has never been carried out. Our fellow-soldiers in the Quartermaster's Department and in the refrigerating plants have been thus favored. This would be a solution for our present difficulties. Let us hope that these words will fall under the eyes of some one who will take up this matter for us.

DISCIPLINE SEVERE.

Our discipline is so severe and our hours so hard that there are sometimes referred to as the "Cantonment Guard House." As one man has well put it, "We would be Bolshevist spreads." Patrick Henry said, "Give me liberty or give us death." We say, "Give us a hearing so that we may get liberty."

We appeal to you therefore to publish this letter in our behalf, so that we who are here may be granted what for so long will be given a hearing. We know that once the true condition of things is brought to the notice of the proper authorities, that the justice of our claims will do the rest for us. We ask for this only as a means of bringing it to the authorities, and we stand behind this letter and petition with unbroken ranks.

Thanking you for any interest you may take in our appeal, we beg to remain,

(Signed)

103d Ordnance Depot, Camp Devens.

HOW TO SAVE ON SHOES

"Out of curiosity I tried a pair of Neolin Soles," said H. P. Mauney of St. Louis, "and today, after five months of hard service I fail to notice any real signs of wear on them."

This statement points the way to real economy in shoes. What your shoes cost, by the year, depends largely on how the soles wear—and Neolin Soles do wear a very long time. Moreover, they are exceedingly comfortable and waterproof—scientifically made to be exactly what soles should be and so worn now by millions.

They are available everywhere on new shoes and for re-soling. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

OVER $17,000,000 INVOLVED AS WILLETT METEOR FALLS

ville Mills; director of the United Printing Machinery Company; trustee of the Wells Memorial Association; president, director and chairman of the executive committee of the Woonsocket Machine and Press Company.

These concerns, and numerous others which he dominated, but are not listed here, represented an investment of $17,000,000, in the opinion of experts.

IN THIRTY-FIVE COMPANIES.

While the companies are neither the wealthiest nor the largest of that chain of brilliant business ventures undertaken by Mr. Willett, their bankruptcy is said to indicate his final renunciation of any attempt to "come back" into the game of high finance.

George F. Willett, still on the sunny side of fifty, was so recently as a year ago the guiding spirit of more than thirty-five companies, dedicated to all sorts of big business, and was regarded by the general public as one of the surest as well as luckiest promoters in New England.

Today he is out of all his enterprises. He lives quietly at his home in Norwood, and so far as is known is not actively connected with any big undertaking, and is generally regarded as having saved little from the wreck.

He has been stripped even of the very properties which he built up in Norwood for the development of his town, including the Norwood Construction Company, the Norwood Housing Association and the Norwood Plumbing & Heating Company.

GOING THE SAME ROAD.

The thirty-five going concerns that he dominated a year ago are in bankruptcy courts, in the hands of other men, or have passed quietly out of existence without any legal obsequies.

A few remain to be disposed of. They, according to the group of bank creditors who took over the Willett, Sears & Company enterprises last summer, will soon go the same road, and the affairs of the parent concern will be wound up for good.

While Mr. Willett really had no financial control of the properties that he had brought into being or warmed to new life since last July, he did maintain a sort of connection with them, hoping that he could recoup his tremendous money losses and rehabilitate himself as a business man.

The group of creditors who took over the Willett-Sears properties last Summer to "save" them, has been variously known as F. S. Moseley and Associates, and as Kidder Peabody and Associates. They are generally understood to be the group of banking and real estate men who exercise considerable control of all big business in Massachusetts.

Some of these bankers and "associates" have gradually come into control of the best of the Willett-Sears companies, such as the American Felt Company.

Mr. Willett's partner in his ventures was Edmund H. Sears of Wayland, a man who was understood to have a much smaller interest in the firm ownings than his colleague.

The chain of principal enterprises which survived the wreck, but under new managements, are the American Felt Company, the Roxbury Carpet Company, the Boston Belting Company and the Daniel Green Felt Shoe Company.

KEPT OTHERS AFLOAT.

These were the "going" concerns of the Willett-Sears chain, the ones which in the opinion of other business men kept other enterprises afloat so long. The American Felt Company in particular was recognized as a desirable and profitable proposition, even at the time last Summer that Mr. Willett turned over all his properties to the banking group whom he owed money.

It was promptly reopened under the new management, and is now, apparently, a financial success.

Costly and inaccurate "efficiency methods" introduced into his various concerns are said to have started the dissolution of the Willett-Sears combine. The interlocking concerns, run for widely divergent purposes, were not under the personal supervision of either of the partners, and "efficiency experts" are said to have been turned loose and to have run riot among them.

Concerns which were weak became positively anaemic under this treatment, and the stronger ventures were sapped of their strength until George F. Willett was in urgent need of money.

This money he could not obtain in Boston. The creditor group, consisting mainly of banking men, took over his extensive holdings and ran them for its own benefit, with Mr. Willett acting as a sort of adviser where he had once been absolute master.

The result is still being made manifest. Some enterprises were quietly wound up. A few were taken over and are still in operation. And others like the two just put in the bankruptcy courts, are to be "liquidated" for the benefit of the creditors.

"The action taken in liquidating the two Machinery & Foundry Companies," said J. Sidney Stone of No. 84 State street, Mr. Willett's attorney, "was adopted as the only prompt and clean way of winding up the affairs of these two concerns, which have long been inoperative.

FATE WAS INEVITABLE.

"It is simply a matter of turning the cash and the other assets over to those who have a claim to them. It was inevitable from the start that such a course should be taken with the greater number of these holdings."

Among the concerns of the Willett, Sears & Co. to live in the Woonsocket Machine & Press Company, which has been sold to another financial group by the creditors. The concerns which are still to be disposed of by the banking group are the Norwood Construction Company, the Norwood Housing Association, the Norwood Plumbing & Heating Company, the Metals & Coating Company of Boston, the Industrial Real Estate & Trust, the Ames Plow Company, the Pike Hill Mines and the Industrial Service & Equipment Company, which is in the hands of a receiver now.

The liquidation of the properties has been confided by the creditors to the legal firm of Goodwin, Proctor & Ballantine, No. 84 State street, Mr. Willett's office in Boston was at No. 214 Devonshire street. He was a liberal contributor to public enterprises, both in this city and Norwood, and the benefactor in particular of golf and country clubs to which he was attached.

IRISH FREEDOM PRESIDENT TO SPEAK HERE

This is "Recognition Week" of the Irish republic. Irish societies throughout the United States and in Canada, Australia and France are celebrating the third anniversary of the Irish revolution which took place in Easter week of 1916 and resulted in the establishment of a provisional Irish republic parliament in Dublin.

In Boston the Roger Casement branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom will hold exercises in Franklin Union Hall, Berkeley and Appleton streets, tomorrow evening. Mayor Rev. Peter E. Magennis, O. C. C., national president of the Friends of Irish Freedom, will speak. This will be the first appearance of Father Magennis in Boston. Dr. Patrick McCartan, envoy of the Irish republic to the United States, and Liam Mellows also will come to Boston for this meeting.

NEW HOPE FOR ERIN IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Paris, April 22—Great enthusiasm prevailed today at Irish-American headquarters in the Grand Hotel over the announcement that Premier Lloyd George will receive the representatives of the friends of Ireland in America—former Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois, Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City and Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia. Secrecy still seals the lips of the three pleaders for Irish independence, but it can be said that they feel this British concession may mean an invitation to Irish delegates to come to Paris and perhaps admittance of Ireland into the League of Nations as a free State.

If the Irish delegates are invited three leading members of the Sinn Fein organization probably will respond. They are Professor De Valera, president of the organization, Count Horace Plunkett and Arthur Griffith. All three were elected to Parliament at the last general election.

LAST CALL FOR ROOMS FOR Y. D. FOLK

Last call on rooms.

If you are a relative of a Y. D. boy and intend coming to Boston Thursday to see Friday's great parade and wish to sleep that night you should apply AT ONCE to the Family Hospitality Committee of the 26th Division for a room with a private family; otherwise you may have to walk the streets all night or sit in the public parks.

The committee is located at Room 620 Little Building, Boston. It will be unable to take care of requests for rooms after tomorrow night. Applications received today and tomorrow will be attended to within an hour after being received. If you church pew, want a room, Mr. and Mrs. Man, get busy right away and write to the committee.

Don't find fault if you come to Boston and try to get accommodations at the last minute. It will be your own fault if you walk the streets or sit on a bench. The Hospitality Committee has tried to impress every relative of a Y. D. boy who desires accommodations that they should not wait until coming to Boston to get a room. If you are a millionaire you will not be able to hire a hotel room in Boston now.

Hundreds more persons were signed rooms today by the committee. Proffers of rooms and applications for them are running a "neck and neck" race. At noon today every application for a room had been attended to and both host and guest notified by mail. It is expected that several churches in the centre of the city will open their doors Thursday and Friday nights for the accommodation of laggards who always wait until the last minute to do anything. Many persons who otherwise would have to sit all night on a park bench now will be permitted to sit in a warm pew.

SAYS CHILD IS HELD BY GRANDPARENTS

North Adams, April 22—Claiming that her child, Dorothy Clairmont, was abducted by the father, the late Delore Clairmont, with the aid of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Clairmont, the child's mother, Mrs. Dora Clairmont, has petitioned the Probate Court to have the child restored to her custody. The mother says the little girl is being illegally detained by her grandparents.

CHILD KILLED IN FALL FROM HOSPITAL B

North Adams, April 22—Following a fall from a high bed at the North Adams Hospital, Clare Parent, five year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parent of Stamford, Vt., is dead. The little girl had been admitted to the hospital where she underwent an operation for the removal of adenoids and was soon to be taken home when the accident occurred.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases—and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

JOYFUL EATING

Unless your food is digested without the aftermath of painful acidity, the joy is taken out of both eating and living.

KI-MOIDS

are wonderful in their help to the stomach troubled with over-acidity. Pleasant to take—relief prompt and definite.

Memorial Services at California University Theatre for Former Regent

San Francisco, Cal., April 22.—Memorial services for Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst, former regent and benefactress of the University of California, were held at the Hearst Greek Theatre on the university campus this afternoon. During the services the marble memorial chair erected to Mrs. Hearst's memory was draped in black with a wreath of Autumn leaves.

Under-graduates, alumni, faculty and the members of the board of regents paid honor to the former regent's memory at the services.

CLOSE UNIVERSITY.

All university functions were stopped during the services.

The women students of the university in whom Mrs. Hearst had been particularly interested were represented by Dr. Jessica Blanche Peixotto, professor of social economics. She spoke of the interest shown by Mrs. Hearst in the welfare of the women students, of the scholarships for women, the reason behind the Hearst memorial hall.

At the services the associated students were represented by Frank Margrar, president of the A. S. U. C. the faculty by Professor Charles Lillis Gayley, dean of the faculty, who expressed the faculty's tribute. John Alexander Britton, regent, spoke of Mrs. Hearst's service on the board of regents.

Pockets Filled With Stolen Bonds, Boy Went Hungry

New York, April 22.—He was often hungry, although he carried in his pockets Liberty bonds and stocks worth over $10,000.

This is the story told in court by seventeen-year-old August J. Hurgon, a former messenger, employed by the Battery National Bank, who is in the Tombs today charged with grand larceny.

According to August A. Bayes, cashier of the bank, about a month ago Hurgon, while in the employ of the bank, was given Liberty bonds valued at $450 and stocks valued at about $10,000, which he was instructed to mail.

Since that time Hurgon said today he had walked the streets of New York searching for work and not daring to dispose of the bonds.

TO REPEAT MINSTREL SHOW AT WEYMOUTH

Weymouth is to have a return showing of the old-fashioned blackface minstrel show that had a three-nights' run at East Weymouth a short time ago. The show will be held at Fogg's Opera House, East Weymouth, tonight. Among the features are a chorus of fifty pretty Red Cross girls and a chorus of Victory girls. Among the song hits appears one entitled, "Every Day'll Be Sunday When the Beach Goes Dry." Representative Burgess H. Spinney will be interlocutor.

WHAT? PULL COURT'S HAIR, NO INDEED! HAD NONE

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—R. A. Davis, in court accused of beating his wife with a razor strop, admitted it, but declared she had beat him with a shoe and pulled his hair. Davis asked Recorder Johnson if his Honor would not rebel if his (the Court's) wife pulled his hair. Even the dough-faced policeman snickered. Judge Johnson declared his wife could not pull his hair, for he had none to pull, and hoped if she beat him with a shoe she would use her shoe instead of his. Davis? Oh, yes, Davis was released on probation.

$108.41 for Black Eye

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 22.—For one black eye, $108.41. That's the award given Nicholas Contis by a jury here recently. Nick is satisfied, but he doesn't understand the 41 cents. "Guess the jurymen had to have their little joke," he said.

DENY GUARDING PHONE STRIKE BREAKERS

Editor American: Dear Sir: A statement contained in your columns to the effect that agents of the Sherman Detective Agency were guarding strike-breakers of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company is grossly in error, and we desire prompt and conspicuous retraction thereof.

The Sherman Detective Agency has not been in active business since 1917. They were succeeded by Sherman Service, Inc., and do not engage in general detective business nor in hiring strike-breakers, nor in furnishing guards.

Sherman Service, Inc., contracts with industrial institutions to create, foster and promote conditions which will lead to greater harmony in the inter-relations between the employer and employe, to visualize to both the resultant importance of co-operation, and to actually cause the installation of such systems, devises, surroundings and environment as will insure the energy of the human element in industry being properly regulated, concentrated and expanded—causing by such constructive work to eliminate strife, enhance production and increase human efficiency to the mutual benefits of both labor and capital.

Sherman Service has no quarrel with labor. They strive to remove the causes of unnecessary human inefficiency, loss and waste, and to equitably apportion the savings effected thereby among the workers and their employers.

Yours very truly,
SHERMAN SERVICE, INC.
JOHN F. SHERMAN,
President and General Manager.

Five-Cent Loaf Is a Long Way Off, Says Barnes

New York, April 22.—Five-cent bread is still a long way off, according to Julius Barnes, named by President Wilson as United States Wheat Director to handle the 1919 wheat crop. He predicted a banner wheat crop this year.

FINE CAST FOR WOMEN'S CLUB COMEDY

Proceeds of "A School for Scandal" for Y. D. Boys

Two special matinees of the old Sheridan comedy, "A School for Scandal," will be presented by the Professional Women's Club at the Plymouth Theatre today and tomorrow afternoon and society in general are displaying interest in the show, but this year there is an added attraction—one-half of the proceeds of the play are to go to the benefit of the Yankee Division.

The play itself promises to be the most successful ever produced by the Professional Women's Club. The players have been coached by Miss Kate Ryan, who made her debut at the Boston Museum.

Maud Huntington Benjamin, who has had important roles in all the previous plays produced by the club, will play the part of Lady Teazle, and Dr. Mary Mosher, one of the best known of Boston's woman physicians, will take the role of Sir Oliver Surface.

Beginning Wednesday morning and continuing Thursday, if you come to the Silk Department, Street Floor, Rear, we will be very glad to hand you a "YD" Welcome Flag which we have had made specially for the 26th parade on Friday next.

There is no advertising on the flags—simply the word "Welcome" and the "YD" monogram printed in the 26th Division colors on white cotton cloth and mounted on a "two-foot" stick.

In order that these flags may find their way only to those who will use them personally in welcoming the "stout-hearted boys," we reserve the right to refuse a flag to those whom we may have reason to believe would use them otherwise.

The Man with the "V" Button Is the Man we all Applaud

HE smiles because he has a right to—he can look his fellow Americans squarely in the eye—he can be proud of his "Victory" Loan button because it proves his thorough-going patriotism.

He's the man who took his full share of previous loans, and when Armistice Day came he could join in singing the "Star Spangled Banner" without feeling he was cheating.

Now he's seeing the thing right through. He's glad the fighting is over and his friends in the service are coming back to home, sweet home. He is still loaning his money because he is really thankful he can subscribe to a "Victory" Loan. He also knows that the "Victory" Loan is the safest and best investment he can make.

Put yourself in his place. Get a "V" button and wear it

Bert Ford's Tales of the YD

The magnificent service rendered by the 101st Regiment of Engineers (formerly the First Corps Cadets) is the subject of Chapter XIV. of Mr. Ford's "Tales of the YD" today.

Mr. Ford says Boston and all New England has reason to be proud of the work of the engineers of the Yankee Division. He tells how the "sappers" abandoned tools to fight, and gives a glimpse of the dangers and hardships they faced in carrying out their perilous duty.

Under violent artillery and machine gun fire, sniped at by German sharpshooters, bombed and machine-gunned by Gothas, the engineers from New England built roads and bridges for infantry and tanks and supplies to advance to the face of the most stubborn opposition.

By BERT FORD

CHAPTER XIV.

Copyright, 1919, by the Boston American

Perhaps you have read of "Cary's Chickens."

They were famous. They made history in the Montdidier sector and American engineers were in the brood.

It was in the Spring when the German push was at its height. The enemy with superior numbers, struck the British fifth army a staggering blow.

Lines broke. Cary, a British officer, rallied every available man—cooks, dishwashers, stablemen, litter bearers and hospital orderlies in a last desperate stand.

Into the breach sprang a detachment of American pioneers who had been working with the British units. Unsolicited they abandoned their tools to fight.

With rifles and grenades they joined "Cary's Chickens," and with them bled and died. The gallant Cary and his men held their ground that day and every Allied army sang the praises of the American engineer. Some of them were decorated. All were commended.

Their superb spirit and courage in that fight immortalized American "sappers," as the skilled Royal Engineers were termed by the French.

ALWAYS EAGER TO FIGHT.

There never was a time when the engineers, from the United States overlooked a chance to fight, although fighting was not supposed to be included in their repertory. The engineers were as eager to engage the boche at close quarters as was the doughboy, and they "mixed it" for more than any historian will ever give them credit for.

They abandoned picks and shovels and more technical implements for bayonets at the slightest provocation. You couldn't keep the engineers out of the fray when things were popping.

The major part of the time, however, the war toll of the pioneers was an unromantic, unspectacular, heart-breaking grind. They had to build bridges and lay pontoons and repair roads for the infantry to advance. Frequently they were ahead of the attacking waves. They had to smooth the way for foot troops and tanks. They had to fill in enormous mine craters and numerous shell holes.

They were raked by artillery, sniped at by sharpshooters, bombed and machine-gunned by Gothas, and, it was all in a day's work. The "sappers" were always in the thickest of it. They worked, ate, fought and slept, with a soft pedal on the latter, constantly in regions where death was supreme.

SERVED FLAG WITH CREDIT.

And right in the front rank of engineer organizations when it came to pluck and achievement stood the 101st Regiment of Engineers from home. No unit of sappers served longer or with greater credit to flag and country.

And the 101st Engineers were none other than the 1st Corps Cadets, one of the institutions of Boston. Coming down to brass tacks, or as we might say, "to speak right out at meeting," every Bostonian recalls the days when the 1st Corps Cadets did not receive the military respect that the organization was entitled to.

Its roster boasts of the names of the first families, of the most prominent men in the community, whose sons succeeded them in serving in the outfit. Partly because of this select personnel and partly because it is a human tendency and weakness to misjudge and misunderstand, the First Corps Cadets were looked upon, in certain quarters, as "ballroom warriors," "tin soldiers" and "social snobs."

You can't appreciate how happy I am today to be able to shatter these absurd titles and banish this rot and to tell the people of New England, and through them, the American public, how unjust and cruelly inaccurate these appellations were, how they wronged this and other historic organizations that went over and met the test.

'TIN SOLDIERS' PROVE SCRAPPERS

You should have seen these so-called "tin soldiers" and "ballroom warriors" scrap. You should have seen them work, like laborers with their hands. You should have beheld their indomitable spirit and courage. You should have seen the hell-holes where they toiled day after day, week after week, month after month.

You should have seen them with the grime and fag of battle, should have seen how they ignored danger and death in the performance of their duty.

Theirs was the spirit of Concord and Lexington and Bunker Hill and Gettysburg and El Caney. Hereafter, when we hear the name of First Corps of Cadets, it will be a signal for profound American gratitude and homage. My, but how "tin soldiers" can fight and suffer.

The world war upset tradition. It was the mirror of manhood. It revealed the true nature of men. In the trenches and dugouts and foxholes a real democracy was born.

WAR A GREAT LEVELLER.

Youngsters from colleges and mansions fought shoulder to shoulder with lads from shops and the slums. War was a great leveller. The sons of the rich and the sons of the lowly suffered and died. From the ranks of both sprang heroes. I recall a cartoon in a comic monthly which I found in a dugout in the Argonne one day, depicting a great lady visiting the tenement of a washerwoman to tell her that her son had written that the washerwoman's son was the bravest lad in the regiment. The expression of pride on the face of the mother of the lieutenant was a benediction.

I came across the son of a former Governor of Massachusetts in the ranks of the Fifth Marines. He left Harvard and enlisted under age and became a "soldier of the sea" because he wanted to see action. He had been careful not to disclose family ties, because he wanted service and no favors. He was just "Private Gaston" among his comrades, a big, plucky lad of nineteen, who was standing on his own feet and his own merit.

This modest effort, this plain Americanism, was one of the finest features of the front. And another feature that always gripped you were the official lists of "Americans cited for distinguished service, lists that resembled fragments of a Russian directory, lists of names with a half dozen and more syllables, names that we correspondents dreaded to cable, there was such danger of having them mussed before they found their way into print.

Indeed, an army of democracy for democracy was Uncle Sam's Expeditionary Force of 2,000,000 men.

PRAISE DUE COL. BUNNELL.

The splendid record made by the 101st Engineers was largely due to the indefatigable efforts and military acumen of Colonel George W. Bunnell who was born in Oakland, Cal., forty-four years ago, and who settled in Massachusetts in 1912. He lives in Worcester.

Colonel Bunnell was a regular before joining the National Guard. He served in the 4th U. S. Artillery and resigned in 1901 to enter business. He was president of the Power Construction Company before he went to France. In 1906 he was lieutenant-colonel in the Engineer Division of the New York National Guard.

The 101st Engineers had been quartered at Wentworth Institute and at the Cadet Armory when ordered abroad. The regiment left Boston, September 7, 1917, for New York, where it boarded the U. S. S. Andantia and sailed to Halifax, where it joined the convoy. The engineers were landed at Liverpool and went by way of Southampton to Le Havre. The regiment sailed from Brest on the U. S. S. Mt. Vernon, March 21, 1919, and with the other units aboard received a hearty home-coming welcome April 6.

COFFEE

Whether or not prohibition prevail, we shall always want—coffee

Coffee has become the most popular beverage in the world, simply because it appeals to a natural taste rather than to an acquired appetite. It serves both as food and drink.

Public opinion is now, ever was, and ever shall be strongly and emphatically in favor of coffee. It is approved by men and women everywhere—by all classes—by all America.

Coffee is the comfort and solace of the millions. It is cheering, soothing, sustaining and satisfying. Who will deny its rare charm and rich flavor?

Who can resist the aroma, the "bouquet" of a fragrant cup of good coffee?

Coffee is a man's drink. A comfy, chummy, clubby drink —a social, convivial, "good-fellow" drink. Wherever men meet to dine or deliberate—there is coffee.

So, naturally,—coffee is enthroned. The good old-fashioned coffee-houses are already being revived, the meeting place of the millions; where men and women, too, may find rest, refreshment, relaxation and—good company.

Coffee—the American drink

HISTORY of the YANKEE DIVISION

by HARRY A. BENVELL

YANKEES WIN GROUND IN HOT ENGAGEMENT AT VERDUN

This is the twenty-third instalment of the "History of the Yankee Division," which began in the Sunday Advertiser-American on March 30.

Copyright, 1919, by New England Publishing Company.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Yankees Create Diversion

While occupying the Troyon sector, which it organized after the battle of St. Mihiel, the Yankee Division named its two subsectors "Massachusetts" and "Connecticut." Its various P. C.'s were also given names of the capitals of the States of New England.

At the beginning of the engagement of September 26, from the Meuse beyond the Argonne, the role of the Yankees was to make the Germans believe that they purposed to break through and attack Metz. In this way they created a diversion and helped out the main attack on the Argonne-Meuse front. As a result of their activities the following letters were received:

No. 29239. Headquarters Second Colonial Corps Staff, October 5, 1918.

From: General Blondlat, Commanding Second Colonial Corps.

To: The Commander-in-Chief (though channels, General commanding Second Army).

Subject: Proposition for Citation in Army Orders in Favor of the First Battalion, 102d Regiment of Infantry, U. S.

I have the honor to send you the report which I had the General commanding the Twenty-Sixth United States Division make on the very hard and glorious combat in which this division engaged you September 26, 1918.

The Second Colonial Corps had received orders to carry out extensive raids to attract and fix the attention of the enemy as follows; "General Orders No. 20, September 20, 1918, of the General commanding the First United States Army: The Second Colonial Corps will hold the front of Bois le Chauffour, inclusive, to Mesnil, exclusive. The Second Colonial Corps will make a demonstration along its front, launching artillery bombardment as well as making extensive raids at H hour."

The dimension and duration of the raid executed by the 26th United States Division certainly deceived the enemy as to our intentions; the losses suffered by the troops taking part in this operation were fairly severe, but there is no doubt that those suffered by the Germans were much more serious.

The spirit of sacrifice and magnificent courage displayed by the troops of the 26th Division on this occasion were certainly not in vain. They seem to me worthy of recompense and praise. Therefore I directed the general commanding the division to address propositions to me on this subject.

I urgently request that the 1st Battalion of the 102d Infantry be cited in Army Orders on the following grounds:

"Picked troops who, trained by Colonel Hiram J. Bearss, led the attack in the first line, carried out brilliantly and with splendid energy a particularly delicate operation; engaged battle with a superb dash; won a victory after a violent combat over an enemy who was both stubborn and superior in numbers, entrenched in concrete shelters, strongly supported by numerous machine guns and powerful artillery, and who made use of, in the course of the action, infamous methods of warfare; heroically carried out their mission in capturing in heavy fighting a village where they maintained themselves all day in spite of four enemy counter attacks, and thus furnished the finest example of courage, abnegation and self-sacrifice.

"I request further that the officers and men mentioned in General Edwards' report receive each and severally the rewards suggested for them by name.

"BLONDLAT."

SECOND LETTER OF PRAISE.

October 7, 1918.

No. 29421A.
Headquarters Second Colonial Army Corps Staff.

At this time, when the Twenty-sixth Division is leaving the zone of the Second Colonial Army Corps, I wish to forward to General Edwards and to his gallant division the expression of my complete satisfaction, my best wishes for its successes to come, and my hearty thanks for the brilliant services in the attack on the St. Mihiel salient.

Although the Twenty-sixth Division was only under my orders for a short time, I discovered on the part of all, both officers and men, those qualities of discipline, ardor and esprit de corps which characterize picked troops.

I thought it but my duty to call to the attention of the French high command the fine conduct under fire of your men in the glorious battle of September 26; they demonstrated once again their high qualities of energy and spirit of sacrifice. I have requested that citations be bestowed upon the brave men whose conduct has been especially reported to me.

BLONDLAT.

The Distinguished Service Cross and the Bronze Oak Leaf "for extraordinary heroism in action" were awarded Colonel Bearss, Lieutenant Colonel (formerly Major) Lewis and Lieutenant Colonel Howard for the part they took in the attack on Marcheville and Riaville. In announcing the awards the commanding general issued the following:—

"Colonel Hiram I. Bearss, 102nd Infantry, for extraordinary heroism in action at Marcheville and Riaville, France, September 26, 1918.

"Colonel Bearss' indomitable courage and leadership led to the complete success of the attack by two battalions of his regiment on Marcheville and Riaville. During the attack these two towns changed hands four times, finally remaining in our possession until the troops were ordered to withdraw. Under terrific machine-gun and artillery fire Colonel Bearss was the first to enter Marcheville, where he directed operations. Later, upon finding his party completely surrounded, he personally assisted in fighting the enemy off with pistol and hand grenades.

"Lieutenant Colonel Evan E. Lewis, for extraordinary heroism in action near Marcheville, France, September 26, 1918.

Being second in command of the assaulting troops, Lieutenant-Colonel Lewis displayed great bravery and rare initiative. While under terrific artillery and machine gun fire he reorganized scattered units, established and organized positions in depth, set up liaison from front to rear, and in hand-to-hand fighting personally led his men, inspiring in them a confidence and tenacity of purpose that were productive of success.

Lieutenant-Colonel James L. Howard, division machine gun officer, 26th Division, for extraordinary heroism in action at Marcheville, France, September 26, 1918.

Lieutenant-Colonel Howard directed the machine gun attack in person. Entering Marcheville ahead of the troops, he rendered great assistance while the town changed hands four times. When he was in a small party, cut off and surrounded by the enemy and under fire from every direction, by his coolness and resourcefulness he assisted materially in aiding the party to withdraw. He effectively organized machine gun defences when the enemy was endeavoring to drive our troops from the town. During the entire day he was under intense artillery bombardment, machine gun and rifle fire, and in hand-to-hand conflict with the enemy.

Thirty-two other officers and men were awarded the same decorations at the time for the part which they had played in various engagements. These included Captain Robert Blood, Medical Corps, 103rd Infantry; Captain Charles W. Comfort, Medical Corps, 102nd Infantry; First Lieutenant Henry Christiansen, Medical Corps, 101st Ambulance Company, and First Lieutenant Joseph H. Dunn, Ambulance Section, 101st Sanitary Train.

Continued Tomorrow.

This "History of the Yankee Division" will be published in book form by the Cornhill Company. There will be blank form pages in each book, whereby every soldier can make a permanent record of the dates and events of his service in the division. It will be on sale at all book stores, on the newsstands and at the hotels and clubs on or about April 23.

Detroit Bishop Would Put Ex-Kaiser on Rock Pile

Bishop Theodore S. Henderson of Detroit, recently returned from a tour of Europe, speaking to members of the Boston Methodist Social Union at the People's Temple, told of the beautiful estate of William Hohenzollern near Metz and declared that if he had his way, the former Kaiser would spend the rest of his life cracking stone for churches wrecked in the war zone.

The bishop asserted that Protestantism in Europe "is at the Marne," with the Methodist religion in the lead, and that unless adherents of the church drove it through it would fall where it was born. Describing what must be accomplished throughout Europe in the matter of reconstruction, the speaker said that schools and colleges must be established first of all, so that when the German universities, responsible for the war, moved out Methodism would have an opportunity to move in.

'King of Tramps' Glad He Is Back in Jail Again

Allentown, Pa., April 22.—Max Fisher, forty-nine, has not been out of jail for more than a year at a time for the last thirty-five years and boasts of it.

Know here as the "King of Tramps," Fisher has been a hobo since early boyhood and has been involved in scores of robberies, according to his own statements.

Fisher got "in again" recently when he was accused of connection with six burglary cases. Twenty years ago he shot the Weaverville postmaster. Only a few years after he had served time for that offence he was given fifteen years for burglary.

The "King of Tramps" was always proud of his close resemblance in personal appearance to the former Kaiser, and he is said to have lorded it over his companions of the road as truly as Bill ever ruled in the Fatherland.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is musey and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Advertisement.

WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made canthrox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about 3 cents a shampoo by getting some canthrox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

Cadum Ointment for Eczema

If you have eczema or any other skin trouble, get a box of Cadum Ointment. It stops the itching at once and is very soothing and healing wherever the skin is irritated or inflamed. Cadum Ointment is also good for pimples, blotches, rash, eruptions, scaly skin, chafings, piles, itch, tetter, sores, scabs, ringworm, cuts, burns, insect bites, etc.

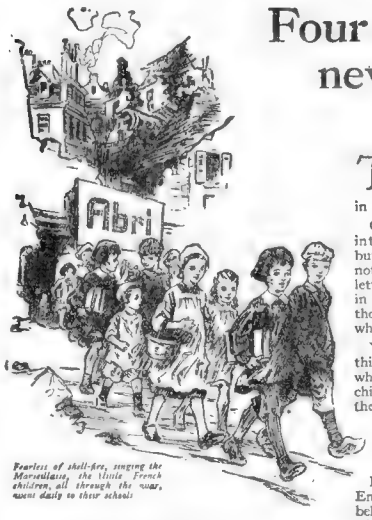
The Shame of America

Four million American-born children never learned to read and write

What kind of an education is YOUR child getting?



Fearless of shell-fire, singing the Marseillaise, the little French children, all through the war, went daily to their school.

THINK of it—700,000 men in our first army draft who could not read or write! Four million Americans in the country today who are illiterate!

Grown-up men and women in every state in the Union—not newly arrived foreigners; but native-born Americans!—who cannot read a newspaper!—cannot write a letter!—cannot even read the safety signs in the streets or factories! Hundreds of thousands—millions of children today who are getting no education whatever!

You—the women of the country—is this America's great free school system of which you are so proud? The helpless children—have you forgotten them under the press and strain of war?

Is America to lag behind England and France?

Do you realize that America is behind England in the education of its children—behind France—behind Sweden? That educationally we are becoming a second-class power?

While these countries are lengthening the school age, thousands of our children under 14 are being thrown into the mills and factories. At the very moment when our Supreme Court was deciding that the Federal Government could not act to prevent child labor, England was totally prohibiting the employment in industry of all children of school age.

America is rich enough to give its children as good an education as any nation in the world. And yet—

Not only are thousands upon thousands of American children growing up illiterate—blind to every kind of print or writing—

But—

The great bulk of American children in school right now—today—are getting an education that is miserably inadequate.

Are 20 million mothers sleeping?

Are America's twenty million mothers asleep? Who is responsible for the children of the country if not the mothers of the country?

Rheta Childe Dorr, in her stirring article, "The Shame of America" sounds the clarion call to every mother, every father, every educator in the country. She tears the veil aside and reveals the farce of our educational system that does not educate. She goes further than mere criticism. She shows the remedy.

Read this great constructive article in the May number of Pictorial Review.

Hundreds of our grown-up soldiers were illiterate, and had to be taught their letters in the Y. M. C. A. huts behind the battle-line

Do you know that—

100,000 of our public school teachers are only 19 years old?

50,000 of them are without high school education?

The salary of a graduate teacher is no more than that of a milliner's apprentice while she is learning her trade?

The minimum wage for a teacher in New York City is $20 less than the minimum wage of a city stableman?

For years there have been country schools throughout the West in which the English language was barred out?

Many of our public school teachers can hardly make themselves understood in English?

Thousands of teachers are leaving the schools to enter other professions?

In New York City alone 32,097 children of school age are receiving no instruction?

Does Every Woman Want a Master?

IS IT true that most women like to be bossed by a man? That they don't want to be taken too seriously? That it flatters them to have a man order their lives for them, tell them what they should eat, wear, read, think and know? Or is a lot of this a tradition that has been made and kept up by romantic novelists and by the kind of men who like to bully their wives?

READ "A Fair Field in Sex" by ex-State Senator Helen Ring Robinson in this number of Pictorial Review. It is daring—stimulating—provocative. It will awaken self-questioning in every woman's mind—it is a witty challenge to every man. The first article in a delightful new series, "What the Women Want."

FIVE SPLENDID SHORT STORIES

Would you commit a crime to save a friend?

When it came to the test, how far would you go for your best friend? Lend him money—get him a job—stand by him when he is down-and-out, yes. But would you go out and commit a crime, if—well, read "A Double-Barrelled Friendship" by Edward S. O'Reilly, and see what you could have done in this man's place.

Love-making based on efficiency methods

Blunderingly, with hopeless inefficiency, the average man makes love. But this man was an exception. Read how with brilliant business acumen he attacked the complex problems that every lover must face. "Pleasure and Business Mixed" is one of Clarence Budington Kelland's most delightful stories.

With the shadow of Flanders in his eyes—

And his empty sleeve—he wasn't the same gay, splendid lad she had sent away to France. Life would never be the same again for either of them. And yet—wasn't that wonderful thing he brought back worth the price? This thrilling, moving story, "What They Brought Out," by Norma Patterson, will grip your heart. It is one of the really great stories that has come out of the war.

A girl doesn't have to be pretty—

With her thin little face, her big wistful gray eyes, no one would have looked twice at her. And yet—do you think life couldn't have thrilling, wonderful adventures in store for her? Read "Love's Labor" by Agnes Mary Brownell—one of those unexpected romances that lie in wait for people just around the corner.

What was the secret she hid from him?

The dancer on the beach, with her sea-blue eyes, her light, laughter-loving nature—what was the secret she was strong enough to hide, even while they were facing death together? Rosa Mundi is a wonderful picture of a woman, in the grip of a strong feeling. Ethel M. Dell has written here one of the finest love stories of the year.

Four Full-page Pictures in Full Colors

"The Fight in the Argonne Forest." Tangled undergrowth as high as a man's head. Machine guns raining down fire from the tops of trees. It was a death trap—yet our men pushed on. Here the Lost Battalion—cut off—held against overwhelming odds. Painted by Charles S. Chapman.

"The Charge at Sedan." Our boys in action—driving the Germans back with that dash and valor that turned the tide of war at Chateau - Thierry, and gave new hope to the Allies. Painted by J. Scott Williams.

"News From Home." His mother—his wife—his little son—he never knew what their letters could mean until, in some French village 3,000 miles overseas, he waited anxiously while the mail was handed around. The moving, human side of war. Painted by S. J. Woolf.

"The Attack on the Base Hospital." The roof in flames. Wounded men who themselves could hardly walk, struggling to drag out their helpless comrades. The Red Cross nurses working on under fire. F. Luis Mora has painted here a great dramatic picture.

All these pictures in full color and ready for framing are included in Pictorial Review for May.

Are You Getting Enough Out of Life?

YOU—the woman shut up in a little city apartment, nursing your babies and struggling with the high cost of living; you—the woman fighting for a livelihood; you—the woman smothered under wealth and conventional surroundings—do you feel that life is as interesting, as worth while, as full of freedom and opportunity as it should be?

How can you get more out of life? In a remarkable special article in the May Pictorial Review, Ida Clyde Clarke opens a great new horizon for American women.

DODGERS BACK WITH KONETCHY ON FIRST

The Dodgers will have a couple of new entrants for fame when they resume the baseball season with the Braves, up at the Home of Big Things, tomorrow. None other than our old friend, Edward Konetchy will be at first base for the enemy, while Lee Magee will hold forth at second.

The Konetchy trade was all over with Charley Ebbets was here watching us drive a ball a couple of games, during which time Manager Wilbur Johnson undoubtedly decided that Johnston would be much more valuable to himself and the team in general out in the garden.

Big Ed won his usual berth up with the 250-hitters and a degree for thinker, has signed the Brooklyn club he will report here today and is in good enough condition to play tomorrow.

If Konetchy and Magee hit as they should, they will sure add quite a bit of punch to the Brooklyn offense, which didn't shape up very hefty in the opening assault.

PLAY BROWN TODAY.

The Braves were to wind up their preliminary training season this p.m. down in Pres Jence with the brown University outfit and then return to Boston's spacious ball yard for the official opening of the season today, without the far-flung land.

All the big leaguers will go to it on the morrow, leaving the Braves just two contests in the rack and the Dodgers as many to the good.

Quite a respectable record for big league ball did Rave one very good effort in that it showed the world that the game is going to have a real comeback. The crowd, last Saturday were certain indications of big doings, while the National League is to be played Magnificent all are warming up for a big year.

Individuals point to a big day at the home of large spirits Friday. Phil Ball the game's putting power to a time that will be worth some of the orators and out of the Legislature, not the least of which will be all locks as if the Braves would give another big crowd at least before taking leg to Texas

GEN. EDWARDS TO ATTEND.

Great preparations have also been made for tomorrow's opening of the season. It will be a military day, largely all the officials of the 26th and the Department of the Northeast and the 43rd Naval District, have been invited and a regular Lead-pipe.

State Chief Gen. Edwards will be on hand as the first man to the affair one of those "stand-up" openers. The youngsters from the various boxes about Boston and the daily drive returned to the Tap Grounds.

Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, former head of the 26th, to whom the mind of the Department of the Northeast, has been asked to throw out the first ball, and agreed to do so. The game starts at 3 p.m. and from reports Boston will have to play a big league game.

MAYS TO PITCH; BABE IN LEFT IN OPENER

New York, April 22.—The Red Sox trimmed and ready are confident of taking the first championship game from the Yankees at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

Carl Mays will do the pitching, Babe Ruth will play left field. Both will be ready to take up their regular duties, with Captain Hooper batting in third place.

The Red Sox were to have their final workout on the Polo Grounds this afternoon. They were to start at 11 and run this way:

White Southpaw Ernie Shore is generally supposed to be Miller Huggins first pitcher, but Southpaw Ernie Shore will face the Yankees in the South End as he was the team's regular twirler during the Red Tauruses.

Manager Hutton and President Frazee announced today that they had decided to pay the Yankees $40,000 for Mays, Pitcher Dutch Leonard and New York players they chose.

Barrow was unable to reach Frazee in Chicago by telephone. He states that Ruth and Mays will be the only players to be sold. He will not say whether Pitcher Bob Shawkey will be sold or traded.

The reason for Barrow's action is because Shawkey refused to play with Harry Frazee, owner of the Red Sox, and Manager Hutton.

Barrow said that Frazee had agreed to give Shawkey a good trade. He stated

Stocks Irregular in New York in the Afternoon

RAILS FEATURE MARKET FOR STRENGTH

Rally at Midday Follows Morning Weakness; Trading Very Active

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Rallying at midday, stocks were irregular in the afternoon, with rails featuring the market for strength. Southern Pacific had been especially active earlier in the day, while low-price road issues were prominent for gains. Those which make benefit by oil-field development were eagerly bought by traders, but it was the best day for carriers in general known for a long time. Steels were as weak as a group all day. U. S. Steel failed to show a gain and ranged from 98¼ to 98¾. Coppers remained quiet and ruled fractionally easier, excepting Tennessee Copper. That issue suddenly became active and advanced nearly two points. The market was very active from the opening until the last hour, transactions for the day totalling around 800,000 shares.

Missouri, Kansas & Texas issues were among the afternoon features, common advancing more than two and preferred more than five points. Texas & Pacific showed a gain of almost four points and Kansas City Southern was up two.

WEAKENED IN SECOND HOUR.

Weakness characterized the New York market at the end of a morning of price irregularity for most active issues. At noon, however, there was a slightly firmer tone than prevailed during the second hour, when the reaction was at its height. Among issues to decline the most were Atlantic Gulf, Industrial Alcohol, United Cigar Stores, Tobacco Products, General Motors, Baldwin, Hide and Leather preferred, Bethlehem B, U. S. Food Products, International Paper, Marine preferred, Mexican Petroleum, Studebaker and Pierce Oil. These losses ranged from one point to more than three.

Pierce Arrow sold at 52¾, its highest record price, and Texas & Pacific made a similar record at 33½, while issues to sell at times at new low level included American Locomotive, Marine common and Southern Pacific.

A number of issues were showing substantial gains when the market was weakest, and among these were Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Mexican Petroleum, Chesapeake and Ohio, Associated Dry Goods, Jewell Tea and United States Realty. They were up a point or more.

SELLING PRESSURE AT OPENING.

There was free offering of stocks at the start and more selling pressure than had been observed at the opening for several days. The selling was attributed more to room traders than to large interests although there is a great deal of talk concerning recent profit-taking on the part of the latter. News from Paris was a little disconcerting to bulls, but partly offset by the great demand for Victory bonds. U. S. Steel and other steels were inclined downward. Little consolation was derived from Director Gary's reference to the U. S. Steel dividend policy in his remarks to stockholders. Wall street is inclined to expect unfavorable action by directors at the coming meeting, although, according to their chairman, what will be done is still a matter of doubt. The closing tone of the market was rather weak during the first hour, with the price range narrow. The volume of transactions was large, however. The great activity on the exchange on Monday was due chiefly to buying orders which accumulated over the holiday period. This demand covered the country and expressed a current desire to speculate on the part of the public. Early trading today was mainly professional.

MARKET LACKED FEATURES.

There were no features to the Boston market during the morning, prices being irregular and trading on about the usual scale. Packards were the strong issue in class, with Libby leading. Coppers continued to be listless. Stewart was quiet, and there was not much business in United Fruit or United Shoe. Bonds advanced early in the session and was comparatively active.

NO LIGHT SHED ON U. S. STEEL DIVIDEND

Judge Gary Does Not Know What Will Govern Finance Committee

One of the most interesting questions affecting the stock market at present is what dividend action will be taken by United States Steel Corporation directors at the meeting scheduled for April 29. Wall street has been full of rumors that there will be adverse action regarding the extra dividend. When Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of directors, addressed stockholders at the annual meeting of the Corporation he said in regard to the dividend policy:

"You will recall that about three years ago the finance committee issued a statement in which it was set forth that its policy would be to establish a rate of 5 per cent. on the common stock and to maintain it, so long as conditions warranted and to make additional payments in the form of extra dividends.

"The action of the finance committee, as now constituted as to the declaration of dividends, will be based, in my judgment, largely upon conditions existing at the time of action rather than upon the prospects of trade in the future.

"You will recall that I have not said what the next dividend will be. This is for the simple reason that I do know the directors and the finance committee will be governed in the way that I have just indicated. It will be our intention at all times to deal as fairly with our stockholders as our resources and the judgment of our board make possible."

STEEL PRICE CONFERENCE SOON TO BE RESUMED

According to Washington advices the conference between the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce and the representatives of the Railway Administration will be resumed soon in response to President Wilson's called request that another effort be made to agree on prices for rails and other steel products which the government must buy. There is a great scarcity of equipment in financial and trade circles as to how and when the deadlock will be broken.

"It has become perfectly clear," says a Pittsburgh dispatch, "concerning the iron and steel situation, "that the general buying public is very far from being satisfied with present prices for steel products. No large buyer would be willing to assert that if the Railroad Administration had approved the Industrial Board's stand the tonnage would have been insignificant as the railroads are in no position to place large orders, nor have they occasion to place large orders until it is assured that Congress is going to give them new legislation and until it is assured that really good transportation service may be rendered."

Large Stock of Liquor

The United States will be well stocked up with liquor when the "dry" day arrives. The immediate revenue loss to the government is estimated at $175,000,000.

MORE FISH THAN EVER SOLD BY AMERICAN

Post-Lenten Season Fails to Check Big Trade by Cost-Price Stores

New England is eating more fish than ever before!

Even though Lent is over New England is continuing to help reduce the cost of living by consuming more sea food. The Boston American Fish Stores yesterday had one of the busiest days of their existence, and the office of Alden A. Mills, No. 101 Tremont street, was swamped with orders for fresh and salt cod fish.

10-POUNDERS GOING STRONG.

The packages of ten pounds of boneless salt codfish at twenty cents a pound were particularly in demand, although there were many orders for twenty-pound boxes of freshly caught cod and haddock at seven cents a pound; thirty-pound boxes of finnan haddie at ten cents a pound, and thirty-pound boxes of whole salt codfish at 13 cents a pound.

Fixtures have been shipped to the Worcester store, and the work of fitting this and the other stores to handle fresh fish has begun. Within a short time fish fresh from Mr. Mills' fleet of a scores of vessels will be placed on sale in the stores a few hours after being landed. Fish from the vessel to the consumer at cost will be accomplished and the reign of the profiteer will be over.

WANT MORE STORES.

Requests for more stores continue to reach Mr. Mills in every mail. These and the continued large sales of fish, both by mail and in the stores, shows that the Boston American Fish stores, offering the public fish at cost, are popular in New England.

If you want to bring down the price of meat and other commodities eat fish! "Buy or order your, tonorrow's dinner today." Fish is the best day will keep H. C. of L. away!

COTTON CONSUMPTION LESS THAN LAST YEAR

Consumption of lint cotton in this country during March, 1919, was 423,-720 bales, making a total to date for the crop-year, which began August 1, 1918,, only 3,819,548 bales, or 570,654 less than for the previous year.

To bring consumption in a country for the current crop year up to the total of the preceding one mills would have to consume cotton at the rate of 684,556 bales a month for the remaining seven months.

It is doubtful if this can be done, although the market for cotton goods is expanding, some mills are sold up to midsummer, while those in Fall River obtained last week business apparently in excess of capacity.

Don't Be Too Optimistic

A Joke in Punch. Latest from Abroad

Copyright, 1919, Star Company

It is a great thing to control industry and "stabilize prices," which in modern language means to control a public necessity and charge what you please for it.

One of Wall Street's stocks has been sailing upward lately, while the gamblers shivered, got in and got out, wondering what had happened. Announcement comes now that they have found a way to make alcohol for use in all motors at a cost so low as to compete with the present prices of gasoline and kerosene. Perhaps you think this will mean very cheap fuel for farmers with their tractors and citizens with small automobiles. Don't be so optimistic.

Those who control gasoline and its price also control the company that has the new method of making alcohol. You need not hope for anything cheap. Big fortunes will be increased, the little people will continue paying the bills—at least until they contrive some method of protecting themselves against "stabilizing."

If you don't know what stabilizing amounts to, consider this fact: Independent oil producers who are not in with the big fellows and cannot market their oil threaten to sell it to the Government at twenty-three cents a barrel. When you remember that the big men arranged to stabilize the price during the war at two dollars and fifteen cents a barrel, you know what stabilization amounts to for the stabilizers.

At fifty cents a barrel for oil, a fair price, gasoline would sell at a good profit for about eight cents a gallon. It was selling at that price in New Jersey, by the way, not long ago. Probably because some big company was engaged in killing off some little one or forcing it to sell out.

The situation might be helped by a few more organizations like the Farmers' Non-Partisan League in North Dakota. With twenty such leagues in the country the Government could be persuaded to let citizens use some of their own oil and gasoline lying underground idle in Government oil lands. Some of the best oil lands the Government is "conserving for future use," while the Oil Trust drives wells in the next lot and pumps out the oil under the land of the Government. When the Government gets ready to pump the people's oil it won't be there. Another one of those good jokes on the people.

London Punch, which represents the wit of England, says: "Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Sinn Fein M. P., has handed M. Clemenceau a copy of the 'Declaration of Independence of Ireland.' Other means have also been employed to entertain and amuse the distinguished invalid during his enforced rest."

Mr. Clemenceau is not the kind of man who would find anything "amusing" in the Irish Declaration of Independence. His nation has lived too long on the edge of Germany, too long in dread of losing national independence, to make the ambition of Ireland seem like a joke to any serious Frenchman.

The English are quite sincere in their amazed indignation that Ireland should be anything but happy and proud under English rule. The same indignant amazement was felt in 1776, when the American Colonies failed to appreciate the blessings of British sovereignty.

Nevertheless, the American Republic was established, and the same thing might happen in Ireland. For the "right to self-government" and the "sad fate of Belgium," about which England talked so earnestly when in danger of defeat at German hands, is still taken seriously in some places.

THE JAPANESE HOUSES HAVE WINDOWS MADE OF PAPER.

That may not mean much to you at first glance, but it does mean a great deal.

To have paper windows in your house means that the house must always contain a certain amount of fresh air. Our windows are made of glass and are absolutely airproof. We feel the cold, and the drafts, in Winter especially. We shut our glass windows, and we sleep hermetically sealed, like the toad in the solid rock.

The paper windows of Japan allow the air to pass through, while preventing violent drafts and keeping out much of the moisture.

The paper window also keeps out germs, while allowing the air to pass. This was proved by investigating "colonies of bacteria" on the inside and on the outside of a paper window. It was shown that 97 per cent. of the bacteria in the air were prevented from getting into the sleeping room.

One remarkably able Japanese, K. Tamura, a surgeon in the Imperial Japanese army, called the attention of his fellow-countrymen to the importance of their paper windows and urged them not to supplant paper with glass. He concludes his argument as follows—you will please read attentively:

"It is well known that a citizen of Paris inhales 7,500 bacteria germs in a day; one in Berlin, 5,000 of them. We Japanese, who live in air containing three times as many as Berlin and twice as many as Paris, inhale only 2,000 bacteria germs in a day, simply because we use paper for the windows of our homes."

We know that the health of a human being is simply and plainly a question of successfully struggling AGAINST DISEASE GERMS.

Every bedroom window should be fitted, at the bottom or the top, with a frame containing a material that would admit of the passage of air, while keeping out moisture and preventing violent drafts.

While waiting for enterprising merchants to design some cheap and feasible arrangement, TRY SOME EXPERIMENTS YOURSELF.

Open your window and fasten across the opening with tacks a piece of very thin, very SHEER flannel, or even cheese cloth.

You will find your room in the morning well ventilated, and you will avoid the evil effects of a draft upon you while you sleep, and of the raw night air, with its moisture and active germs.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

Just a Suggestion

It is reported that Secretary of the Treasury Glass will head a double male quartet which will sing in aid of the Liberty Loan drive.

AH, Mr. Glass, can this be true,
Are you about to make sweet moan
In minor keys the country through,
Believing it will boost the Loan?
Do you suppose that "Dad's in France,"
"I'm sorry That I Made You Cry,"
And "No Man's Land" by any chance
Will tend to make the public buy?

PERHAPS they will; perhaps the lays
That waken rapture in the heart
Will work in their mysterious ways
To rip the tightwad's roll apart.
Perhaps the crowds that hear your notes
Around them ring in accents sweet,
In order to preserve their goats
Will lay their savings at your feet.

BUT maybe, on the other hand
(Far be this from a diatribe;
In any case, you understand,
We promise you that we'll subscribe)—
But maybe, as we said before,
However well your songs may flow,
The fickle public my get sore
And button up their rolls, and go.

DOC BRYAN could not sing a bit
(We thank the kindly fates for that),
But when he tried to make a hit
Among the proletariat
By doing stunts in vaudeville,
Forth from his office he was thrust—
The footlight business finished Bill.
He was, as you must know, a bust!

AND so we beg you, Mr. Glass,
To think about this scheme again
We fear the people, in the mass,
Don't care for songs from public men.
If music's spell will help the Loan
(And very likely it will do so),
Don't give us ditties of your own,
Employ some songbird like Caruso!

Letters to the Editor

Hampers Departure

Editor Boston American.

Being a constant reader of your patriotic paper and knowing the stand that it takes for justice to all, I thought that you would give this matter your attention.

We have with us millions of people born in foreign lands. The majority of these are law-abiding persons with intentions to stay here and make the United States their adopted country. Yet we must remember that many who, because of family ties, their health or even homesickness, desire to go to the land of their birth, either permanently, which is very seldom, or for a short stay, for we must admit it is natural for a man, no matter how well off he becomes in a strange land, be will always remember the land of his childhood.

Must America make all these people her enemies? I saw it published in a Greek paper, the Atlantis, that foreigners leaving this country are meeting many obstacles. According to this paper they must prove they have paid income taxes for 1917 and 1918 and are not allowed the $1,000, but must pay war tax of not only 6 per cent. but 12 per cent.

Now, this kind of treatment does not help them or their people in the home lands. I hope you will not mistake my intentions in calling this matter to your attention.

DOLL WIVES WHO ARE BURDENS TO MEN

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"DEAR Mrs. Woodrow—Please print in your column your opinion of the following circumstances and what you would do if you were in my place.

"I was married ten months ago and my husband and I went to live in another city. He was very good to me, but I was lonesome. I am an only child, and I missed my mother terribly. We stayed there four months, but I was so miserable that I made my husband give up his position and come back home.

"It seemed impossible for him to get located here. I don't know whether he didn't try hard enough or whether luck was against him. He had left a very good position and he seemed discouraged because he couldn't get anything like it here. I gave him some money, a few hundred dollars, a part of which we lived on for three months. At the end of that time he left me.

"A few days ago he came back. He told me that he had been in a hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. He had drawn the rest of the money I had given him to pay his doctor bills. He realized his mistake and begged me on his knees to take him back.

"My mother says that she cannot trust me to him any more, that if he left me once he would do so again, that he stole my money, in other words, he was a thief, and would do anything. She used to love him, but now she hates him, and I don't blame her. He was a man who was very well thought of; every one who met him complimented me on my choice.

"He was always very kind and affectionate to me, and I adored him. But now I don't know what to do. There is a good position waiting for him as soon as he comes from camp—I forgot to say that he is in the army.

"I am afraid to risk living with him again. What shall I do? Shall I forgive him? Do you think he deserves it? Would I be risking my future happiness to live with him again? Though he is heartily sorry for his act, how can I ever believe him and trust him? Thanking you for your advice, I am sincerely, C. L."

Consider His Feelings

I read this letter, gasped, and then began at the beginning and read it over again.

My dear C. L., are you angry with your husband because he dared to be ill on your money? Careless of him, perhaps, but one does not have much time to weigh and consider fine points of economics when overtaken by sickness.

Should you forgive him? It seems to me the question before the judge and the jury is, Shall he forgive you?

Haven't you any idea of the square deal, or has an exaggeratedly fond and foolish mother convinced you that the square deal belongs in the "scrap of paper" class?

What was your idea in marrying? To live the life of a pet Pom or Persian, and doze on the hearthrug, and be fed with dainties?

Did it ever enter your head that the contract of marriage involved responsibilities on your part as well as on his?

An Unfair Attitude

You were aware that your husband's business compelled a residence in another city. If you couldn't live without your mother, why did you not look that fact in the face before you leaped instead of afterward? But, according to your statement, you accompanied him to your new home, and there proceeded to make yourself and him miserable. Finally, you forced him to abandon his position, entirely unmindful of his wishes, his prospects and his business career. Then, as a result of a salve, you contributed to the partnership a few hundred dollars, on which you both lived while he looked for another job.

He became ill and was forced to go to a hospital, using what remained of the money to pay his necessary expenses. Therefore, you accuse him of being a thief. He might in turn call you one, since for a mere whim you deprived him of his work, not to mention hope and happiness.

Now you ask me if you dare entrust your happiness to him. I should think he would be asking himself very seriously if he dared contemplate a life spent with you.

My dear girl, wake up! Don't let your mother live your life for you, and take possession of your mind and form your opinions. Be a real woman, and not a silly, little toy.

The Last Call
Mr. Rockefeller and Ferns
Fouche and Napoleon
Ford's $10,000,000

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919.)

After this Victory Loan subscription ends it will be too late for any citizen to prove that he is willing to invest his money in his country, its obligations and its victory.

This is the last call, the last loan, the best loan of this or any other time.

He is a poor American who, unable to cross the water and do his share, will not even help with his money to clean up the odds and ends, pay the bill and set the country going on the upgrade, ahead of all nations, of all records.

The news letter of the University of Chicago tells you that more than five hundred courses will be offered during the Summer quarter, beginning June 16 and ending August 16. A great deal of knowledge in 500 courses; many thoughts will be born of that Summer coaching.

When the pollen, falling from the giant fern trees, stored away the coal oil millions of years ago, those gigantic ferns were doing more than storing up a big fortune for John D. Rockefeller. They were storing up the University of Chicago, which owes its power to Rockefeller millions. The teachings of that university, combined with others, will supply a civilization that need not depend upon private benevolence for necessary things.

Lucky for future generations that there ARE large fortunes to start things now, as it is fortunate that millions of years ago there was heavy suffocating vegetation to start the coal fields.

Is this land of opportunity still? It is. This writer years ago knew the late Marshall Field and observed his method of playing poker with George Pullman, John W. Doane, the coffee man, and a certain judge of the high court. Everybody knew all of those men at that time. Nobody knew a young person named Simpson, with bright yellow hair and a very small salary, working for Marshall Field with concentrated earnestness and a minimum salary.

Field is gone, and Pullman, and Doane and the judge.

Yesterday Mr. James Simpson, still with yellow hair, handed out a check for $4,000,000 in payment for Victory bonds, bought for himself, Mr. John Shedd and the firm of Marshall Field & Company that they own together.

There were opportunities then; there are opportunities NOW.

There will ALWAYS be opportunities for the man that will work, and stick, and not look around with his nose in the air, waiting for somebody to "give him a chance."

Ingenuity wastes its time explaining why Count von Bernstorff and von Hindenburg, when the Kaiser went down, joined the government of Ebert and the others that kicked the Kaiser out. It takes no gimal from the grave to explain that, and there is no need of inventing any deep plan of bringing back the Hohenzollerns. Their plan is to care for themselves.

Fouche, Duke of Otranto, and a good royalist of the Louis XVI. relics, changed his mind quickly and voted DEATH for the king when the revolution came. He was not embarrassed when Napoleon asked him: "Did you not vote for the death of Louis XVI?"

"Yes," was the reply, "that was the first service I had the honor of rendering your majesty." It was Louis' death that made Napoleon's opportunity.

Gifford Pinchot, stormy Republican petrel, is out with the announcement that he wants a Theodore Roosevelt Republican for President, and among others mentions Hiram Johnson.

Hiram Johnson would make a first class President, no man in the country better, but Pinchot should know that the "influence" that is counted on to restore the Republicans to power will have nothing to do with Hiram Johnson.

Controlling Republicans look upon this coming election as simple and easy. One hundred thousand men tell each other that so and so is the case, and forget that a hundred millions are going to decide it.

Henry Ford buys ten millions of Victory Bonds.

Do you suppose that any man grudges Henry Ford the money that he makes, millions a year? Not one. Dollar for dollar, he has given the country more than one hundred per cent., more than a thousand per cent. in value.

Yet all that Ford has done is not equal to work that he would do if he could make real his suggestion that industry should be so organized as to allow men to work on the land in Summer and in the factories in Winter.

You may say "Utopia dreamland." That was said when flying machines were first discussed, and then somebody in England said that a railroad train would go twenty miles an hour.
